Germans Force Slavs Across Stokhod River.

TEUTONS GAIN NEAR LEMBERG

Roumanians Give Ground Rapidly. Invaders Are Put to Flight—Allied Defenses in Dobrudja Are Penetrated—Berlin Admits Loss in West.

London, Sept. 20.—Although there is a pause in the violent infantry fighting in the Somme region of France, due to the inclement weather, heavy battles are in progress on the Eastern front in Russia, Galicia, Transylvania and Roumania and on the Southern front in Macedonia.

Along the Stokhod river in Russia the Germans and Austro-Hungarians took the offensive against the Russians, and, according to Berlin, crossed the river near Zareze in pursuit of their retreating foe and captured thirty-one officers and 2,511 men and seventeen machine guns. Here four lines of Russian trenches were penetrated by the Teutonic allies.

Capture 4,200 Men.

In Galicia a counter-attack by the forces of the central powers along the Narayuvka river southeast of Lemberg brought a further success to their arms and resulted in the capture of an additional 4,200 men.

In the Ludowa region of the Carpathians the Russians have gained some new positions in the fighting among the snow-clad peaks.

The war chancelleries at Berlin, Sofia and Vienna record victories for the Teutonic allies over the Roumanians in Transylvania and Dobrudja.

In Southern Transylvania, near Hatzeg, according to Berlin, the invading Roumanians were repulsed and are being pursued by the Austro-Germans, while in Dobrudja the new line formed by the Russians south of the Constanza railway and running from the Black sea to the Danube, has been penetrated at some points and several villages have been captured.

Fighting in Macedonia.

In Macedonia hard fighting continues at various points, but with no important changes in positions reported. Artillery engagements for the most part are going on along both the British and French sectors of the front.

In France and Belgium there has been violent artillery activity on the Somme and Verdun fronts and around Dixmude. A local German attack on British trenches east of Martinpuich, north of the Somme, was repulsed.

Berlin admits the relinquishment to the entente forces of trenches east of Ginchy and near Combles.

The infantry fighting between the Italians and Austrians on the Carso highlands has noticeably diminished, although the artillery on both sides continues active.

A report attributed to reliable diplomatic sources in Athens is to the effect that the Austrians are preparing to evacuate Trieste.

COALITION IS URGED BY BERLIN WRITER

Amsterdam, Sept. 20.—A coalition government for Germany is urged by the Berlin Tageblatt in a long article by Hans Sivkovich, a member of the Reichstag.

"Never since the beginning of the war," he writes, "has the German people awaited with such tension and apprehension the forthcoming meeting of the Reichstag."

"The period since the last meeting has brought us successes, but also many difficulties, military setbacks, and new enemies."

"After two years of fighting, bloodshed and self-denial, the peace for which every heart longs still is at an immeasurable distance. The fighting lust of the enemy has been revived by Russian successes and the entry of Roumania. The whole people stand at the gate, waiting and asking."

Cobb Concedes Speaker Is Leader.

Detroit, Sept. 20.—Tyrus Cobb, for nine years the leading batsman of the American league, concedes that Tris Speaker of the Cleveland club will be the 1916 champion. Speaker now has a margin of nearly thirty points over Cobb, according to unofficial averages. Cobb said it is a human impossibility for him to try to cut down this lead and at the same time to co-operate in team play to the fullest extent of his ability. Cobb's individual efforts won 3 of Detroit's recent victories.

DIPLOMAT DIES IN CHICAGO

William J. Calhoun Gained Fame in Cuban Mission.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—William J. Calhoun, former minister to China, is dead at his residence here. Mr. Calhoun was sixty-eight years old. He had been in ill health for months.

Mr. Calhoun gained fame as a diplomat through his mission to Cuba, just preceding the war with Spain.

BREAK IN MEDIATION BOARD IS AVERTED

New London, Conn., Sept. 20.—The threatened rift in the American-Mexican conference has been closed, at least temporarily.

The American commissioners consented to give consideration to immediate withdrawal of troops and the question of border protection. In this connection the Mexicans have promised to send a force to replace General Pershing's men. On the whole the Americans feel there is no immediate break ahead. But the Mexican temper is such that the border questions must be finally disposed of at once, or else there is trouble ahead for the commission.

The Mexicans have pledged to hunt Villa "to the bitter end." The attack on Chihuahua simplifies the problem, they said. Hitherto it has been a problem of locating the bandit leader, rather than anything else. The raid has revealed his whereabouts. The one big problem upon which the world in general must pass is the subject of the Mexican declaration of equal rights to Mexicans and foreigners in Mexico. The Mexicans say Mexico will be more peaceful by reason of becoming subject to "outside contentions." Hence Carranza will put both Mexican and foreign interests on the same footing.

INVASION OF MEXICO CALLED ONLY CURE

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 20.—Invasion of Mexico to establish a permanent government and permanent peace was advocated here by Major E. C. Clemans, chaplain of the Second Minnesota infantry and field secretary for the board of conference claimants of the Northern ministerial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"In my opinion," Major Clemans said, "there is only one thing for the United States to do, and that is to throw an army of invasion into Mexico and establish a permanent government and a permanent peace. It may take five or fifty years, but Mexico is worth it to the American continent."

Plague Sweeps Bay State.

Boston, Sept. 20.—The greatest spread of infantile paralysis since the disease became epidemic in this state is reported to the department of health. Thirty-nine new cases developed in the last twenty-four hours, as compared with forty in the previous forty-eight hours. Since the first of the month 360 new cases have been reported.

BLACK DIAMOND TRAIL ROUTE DESIGNATED AT MEETING HERE

Delegates Present from all Counties on the Proposed Highway Except Cass, N. D., and Clay

Public Affairs Committee Appointed by Pres. Henry I. Cohen, Next Meeting Here October 9

The Dispatch is glad to print in full the official minutes of the meeting held by the trustees and officers of the Fargo-Duluth Highway Association, the "Black Diamond Trail Route."

Much good was accomplished at the convention. The route was designated through all counties except through Crow Wing and sections of Cass and Morrison.

Crosby sent the largest delegation, 25 good roads boosters. The spacious Chamber of Commerce rooms were filled to overflowing. It was a business session from start to finish. The next meeting which will consider road contests will be held in Brainerd at the Chamber of Commerce on October 9.

The delegates and friends of "The Black Diamond Trail Association" appreciated the enterprise of the Brainerd Dispatch which put copies of the afternoon paper in their hands the day of the meeting and through the co-operation of good roads men had a fine advance story of the gathering and the road.

* TRIBUTE TO UNITED PRESS *

The Dispatch takes the United Press service and its city editor, John A. Hoffbauer, keeps the association supplied with advance news on conventions, gatherings, etc.

The gathering was featured before the meeting and on the day of the convention the United Press had a story throughout its territory of 675 afternoon papers of the United States calling attention to "The Black Diamond Trail."

Publicity work of the Brainerd Dispatch and the United Press, of which the Dispatch is a member, was appreciated by the delegates.

Minutes of the meeting of the Duluth-Fargo Highway association.

Meeting called to order at Brainerd, Minnesota at 3:00 p. m., Tuesday, Sept. 19, 1916. President Henry I. Cohen, presiding.

Delegates were present from all counties except Clay county and Cass county. The resignation from Dr. J. D. Park of Duluth was received and Wm. W. Crawford of Duluth was selected in his place. The chair then appointed the public affairs committee as follows:

W. E. Verity, Wadena, Chas. S. Warden, Moorhead, John K. West, Detroit, Freeman Krech, Atkin, George C. McCarthy, Duluth.

A discussion of proper markings of the road was then taken up and motion made by Mr. Corper that it be a white back ground, 12 inches square with a black diamond proportionate to the size of the square in the center of same and that to designate the directions, the letters R. and L. be placed immediately below the mark to be painted in white and that the mark be not less than 6 feet from the ground. A motion was duly made and seconded that the chair appoint a committee of three on incorporation and by-laws and that same shall be presented at the next meeting. The chair appointed the following committee, C. A. Albright, C. E. Hansing of Brainerd, and W. E. Verity of Wadena. It was moved and seconded that the committee from Crow Wing county who are now in waiting to be heard regarding the proposed route of said highway, be invited in to show where they think the road should go.

A motion was made by Mr. Albright and duly seconded that the citizens favoring the so-called north road and those favoring the so-called south road, be notified to present (Continued on page 4)

London, Sept. 20.—A dispatch from Athens says Greece has sent an urgent note to Germany demanding a release of the troops taken at Kavalla.

ASSERTS FRENCH BEAR WAR BRUNT

Deputy Says Other Allies Should Make Sacrifices.

PREMIER MAKES STIFF REPLY

Briand Declares Speech Is Unjust to Entente Nations — Flays Another Member for Suggesting Conflict Be Stopped—Chamber Cheers Leader.

Paris, Sept. 20.—A delicate question was raised in the chamber of deputies by M. Roux Costadau, who asked Premier Briand to see to it that there is not only unity of action on all fronts by the entente allies, but also proportionate of effectiveness.

Protests were made from various parts of the chamber against any discussion on the subject of the proportionate number of troops engaged from the different entente countries. M. Roux Costadau, nevertheless, persisted, saying France could not expect to give the blood of all her children, and that her allies should make the necessary sacrifices.

Premier Briand, in reply, declared it unjust to throw doubt on the efforts of the allies in such a sacred cause. England, he said, has never said "no" to any demand for aid. Italy had made the utmost efforts. Russia had sent to France her soldiers from across the world.

"Tomorrow," continued the premier, "you will see this joint action expanding still more."

Attacks Peace Advocate.

Replying to another speaker, M. Brizon, who attempted to calculate the economic value of the men who had fallen in the war, Premier Briand said:

"M. Brizon has suggested it is possible for the president of the council to bring the war to an end. That is the idea he is trying to propagate, and it is my duty to destroy this propaganda."

"Your country, Monsieur Brizon, has a splendid past, which should make you love her. This country was seized by the throat after her assailant had passed over the bleeding body of Belgium."

"To this country, which has the honor to be champion of right and which has poured out its blood in floods, you say, 'Stop the war. Negotiate peace.' At this point the members of the chamber arose, cheering M. Briand and howling down M. Brizon."

Resuming, the premier said: "You little know France, Monsieur Brizon, if you think she can sell her blood. What peace would you make for this country at this moment? If peace were made now it would be a peace of war and a menace to future generations."

GREAT DAMAGE DONE WHEN DAM BREAKS

London, Sept. 20.—Many lives have been lost and enormous damage has been caused near Gablonz, Bohemia, by the bursting of a dam in the valley at Weissendesse.

The dam was eight meters in length and twenty in depth.

The onrushing water carried away numerous glass polishing factories and it is feared there were many victims. The bridges were not destroyed, but are in danger of collapse. The damage is great.

The villages of Deszendorf, Tiefenbach, Hannwald, Schumburg, Schwarzwasser, Grosshammer and Haratz are inundated.

Pershing May Be Advanced.

Resuming, the premier said: "You little know France, Monsieur Brizon, if you think she can sell her blood. What peace would you make for this country at this moment? If peace were made now it would be a peace of war and a menace to future generations."

GREAT DAMAGE DONE WHEN DAM BREAKS

London, Sept. 20.—Many lives have been lost and enormous damage has been caused near Gablonz, Bohemia, by the bursting of a dam in the valley at Weissendesse.

The dam was eight meters in length and twenty in depth.

The onrushing water carried away numerous glass polishing factories and it is feared there were many victims. The bridges were not destroyed, but are in danger of collapse. The damage is great.

The villages of Deszendorf, Tiefenbach, Hannwald, Schumburg, Schwarn, Grosshammer and Haratz are inundated.

Pershing May Be Advanced.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Brigadier General John J. Pershing, commander of the American punitive expedition in Mexico and ranking brigadier of the army, probably will be made a major general, a vacancy in that grade having been created by the death of Major General Mills.

HUGHES' GUNS ON RAIL ACT

Analyzes 8-Hour Law in Speech at Springfield, Ill.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—Charles E. Hughes, addressing an audience in the arsenal here, renewed his attack on the administration for the passage of the Adamson law in the face of the threatened railroad strike.

Mr. Hughes characterized as "futile" reasons advocated for its passage, quoted from President Wilson's address to congress on the subject, and challenged the statement of Representative Adamson that it was passed "to meet an emergency."

MOBS STORM BARN AND BEAT CARMEN

New York, Sept. 20.—The most serious rioting since the transit strike in this city began two weeks ago occurred in various sections of Manhattan, when attempts were made to run cars on the Forty-second and Fifty-ninth street cross-town surface lines.

Mobs of strikers and their sympathizers stormed two car-barns, overpowering the police and putting to flight all railway employees in the vicinity.

Several policemen and conductors who had not joined the strike were beaten.

Much property damage had been done before police reserves arrived.

The police reported later that all surface cars had been ordered to the barns for the rest of the night.

After a citizens' committee had failed to effect a basis of settlement between the striking carmen and their employers it was announced that apparently the only hope of averting a threatened sympathetic walkout of 700,000 workers, set for Friday, now lies in a final appeal to be made to the labor leaders Thursday.

WHITMAN HAS LEAD IN NEW YORK VOTE

New York, Sept. 20.—Returns from 1,521 districts out of 5,719 in the state received at midnight gave Governor Charles S. Whitman 3,524 votes for the Progressive endorsement for governor against 2,769 for Judge Samuel Seabury, Democrat.

The contest for the Republican senatorial nomination was close. William C. Calder had received 48,393 votes in 2,981 districts in the state as compared with 42,832 for Robert Bacon. William F. McCombs leads his opponent, Thomas Conway, by 14,000 votes for the Democratic nomination for the senate in 1,546 districts.

The Progressive vote aroused much interest among state and national leaders, for it was regarded as giving some light on how the strength of the party would be divided in the national election. A majority of the Progressive leaders of the state supported Mr. Whitman's candidacy.

"I will pay all; then I will join Joe," Mrs. Tuma declared. She was associated with her husband in the private bank.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict that Tuma committed suicide while despondent over business troubles. Mrs. Tuma begged the coroner for the revolver with which her husband had shot himself, but the official was of the opinion Mrs. Tuma would use the weapon against herself.

CHINESE DOCTORS.

Their Weird Ideas About Disease and Its Remedies.

PUNCH HOLES IN PATIENTS.

To Perform This Operation They Use Eight Different Styles of Needles, Some Two Feet Long, and the Bigger the Punch the Greater the Doctor.

The bigger the needle with which a Chinese doctor punctures his patient the higher the charge, for the larger the needle the more distinguished is the physician. If the doctor wears a straw hat, that signifies he is a prosperous doctor and his charge is a little more. If he comes in a sedan, the patient must pay for the chair.

Dr. Franz Otto Koch, writing in the Popular Science Monthly, gives a description of the Chinese physician and how he practices.

"The native Chinese doctor is a curiosity," writes Dr. Koch. "He passes no examination; he requires no qualifications; he may have failed in business and set up as a physician. In his new profession he requires little stock in trade, medical instruments being almost unknown.

"Acupuncture, as it is called, is one of the nine branches recognized in medical science among the Chinese. It is of most ancient origin, having been in use from time immemorial. There are 337 markings to be learned. Every square inch on the human surface has its own name, and some relation to the internal parts, purely imaginary, is assigned to it. The user is cautioned against wounding the arteries; hence he must know the position of the blood vessels. By close study of a manikin pierced with holes the Chinese physician learns where to drive his needles. Parts of the body are selected which may be pierced without fatal results. Sometimes heat is applied to the outer end of the needle, and this is called a hot acupuncture, but the needle is never heated before insertion.

"The needle used looks very much like a sewing machine needle, but it is longer and coarser. Some of the Chinese doctors have needles two feet long and are supposed by ardent admirers to be able to drive these instruments entirely through the patient's body. The great size of the needles is in reality intended to represent the greatness of the owner's skill and reputation. The needles used are of eight forms, as follows: The arrowhead, blunt puncturing, spear pointed, fusiform, round, capillary, long and thick. The point of insertion, the depth and direction are all important. The method is usually to drive the needle through the distended skin by a blow from a light mallet.

"If he can get an old book of prescriptions from a retiring practitioner so much the better for the Chinese doctor. He is now equipped to kill or cure, as chance or his ignorance may dictate. The doctor most entitled to confidence in the sight of his countrymen is the man whose father has been a doctor before him. Confidence in him knows no bounds should his grandfather have followed the same calling. This is not mere fatuous belief in heredity, but is based on the supposed value of old prescription books passed on from grandfather to grandson.

"Fees vary according to the physician's social class and that of his patients and also according to the physician's place of residence. The enormous sum of perhaps 15 American cents or half a dollar at the most may be charged for a visit if the doctor comes in a sedan chair. Of this amount a large proportion goes for the chair. Should the doctor belong to the humbler ranks and come on foot his fee is proportionately less. He assumes a solemn air and owl-like look as he peers out of the semidarkness of a Chinese bedroom through great goggle shaped glasses—two inches across and set in huge mouth copper frame. "Most important in diagnosis is the feeling of the different pulses of the hands.

man system. The pulse at each wrist is felt. By thus feeling the pulses the states of a dozen real or imaginary organs are determined. Having thus learned by the pressure at these pulses the seat of the disease, a few questions may be asked, but these are considered scarcely necessary. A prescription sometimes calling for the most horrible and nauseating compounds is prepared in large doses, for the native believes that the larger the dose the more likely it is to prove efficacious. In prescribing for natives the foreign doctors have to give the strictest injunctions that the paper box in which the pills are contained is not to be swallowed.

"The manner in which the Chinese treat their physicians is characteristic. Should a speedy cure not result from the doctor's treatment the patient calls in another. If he does not improve he calls in a third. Thus the medical skill of the whole neighborhood may be drawn upon."

Sounds to Have Change.

In the absence of her husband the fascinating young married woman went heading with an old admirer.

"Ah," sighed the old admirer, "if only you had married me instead of Wilkinson."

"Then I should have been with Mr. Wilkinson at this moment instead of you," said the fascinating woman.

"How strangely things turn out!"—New York Times.

HUGHES AND FAIRBANKS ON SAME PROGRAM.

Indianapolis, Sept. 20.—When Charles E. Hughes, Republican presidential candidate, speaks here Saturday night, Charles W. Fairbanks, the candidate for vice president of the United States on the same ticket, will preside at the meeting. It will be one of the few times, if not the only occasion in the campaign, that the Republican presidential candidates will speak at the same meeting.

Catching and Taming Elephants.

In Ceylon the natives capture wild elephants by lassoing them and tying their hind legs to trees. Thus tied, they are left to struggle for four or five days. If the ropes be well secured and knotted the animals struggle in vain, for they are unable to exert their full strength toward getting free. When they have grown tired of the fruitless fight they are tied by the neck between two tame elephants and marched off to the tea plantations or the railroad, where they are put to work. Under the tuition of tame elephants they learn rapidly to perform the labor that is required of them and soon are able to lay railroad ties accurately.

Aroused His Curiosity.

"John," exclaimed the nervous woman, "there's a burglar in the house!" "Do you mean to tell me that after I tried every door and window in my effort to get into my own home, just because I happened to mislay my latchkey, a burglar comes along and wakes you up at the first rattle of the door-knob? I'm going down to see him."

"What are you going to do?"

"I'm going to interview him and see if I can find out how he did it."—Washington Star.

WIDOW THREATENS SUICIDE

Mrs. Tuma Says She Will Pay De-positors and Die.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Joseph Tu-ma, whose banker husband committed suicide by shooting, asserted repeatedly the institution is solvent.

"I will pay all, then I will join Joe,"
Mrs. Tuma declared. She was associated with her husband in the private bank.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict that Tuma committed suicide while dependent over business troubles.
Mrs. Tuma begged the coroner for the revolver with which her husband had shot himself, but the official was of the opinion Mrs. Tuma would use the weapon against herself.

CHINESE DOCTORS.

Their Weird Ideas About Disease and Its Remedies.

PUNCH HOLES IN PATIENTS.

To Perform This Operation They Use
Eight Different Styles of Needles,
Some Two Feet Long, and the Bigger the Punch the Greater the Doctor.

The bigger the needle with which a Chinese doctor punctures his patient the higher the charge, for the bigger the needle the more distinguished is the physician. If the doctor wears a straw hat, that signifies he is a prosperous doctor and his charge is a little more. If he comes in a sedan, the patient must pay for the chair.

Dr. Franz Otto Koch, writing in the Popular Science Monthly, gives a description of the Chinese physician and how he practices.

"The native Chinese doctor is a curiosity," writes Dr. Koch. "He passes no examination; he requires no qualifications; he may have failed in business and set up as a physician. In his new profession he requires little stock in trade, medical instruments being almost unknown.

"Acupuncture, as it is called, is one of the nine branches recognized in medical science among the Chinese.
It is of most ancient origin, having been in use from time immemorial.
There are 337 markings to be learned.
Every square inch on the human surface has its own name, and some relation to the internal parts, purely imaginary, is assigned to it. The user is cautioned against wounding the arteries; hence he must know the position of the blood vessels. By close study of a manifold pierced with holes the Chinese physician learns where to drive his needles. Parts of the body are selected which may be pierced without fatal results. Sometimes heat is applied to the outer end of the needle, and this is called a hot acupuncture, but the needle is never heated before insertion.

"The needle used looks very much like a sewing machine needle, but it is longer and coarser. Some of the Chinese doctors have needles two feet long and are supposed by ardent admirers to be able to drive these instruments entirely through the patient's body. The great size of the needles is in reality intended to represent the greatness of the owner's skill and reputation. The needles used are of eight forms, as follows:
The arrowhead, blunt puncturing, spear pointed, fusiform, round, capillary, long and thick. The point of insertion, the depth and direction are all important. The method is usually to drive the needle through the distended skin by a blow from a light mallet.

"If he can get an old book of prescriptions from a retiring practitioner so much the better for the Chinese doctor. He is now equipped to kill or cure, as chance or his ignorance may decide. The doctor most entitled to confidence in the sight of his countrymen is the man whose father has been a doctor before him. Confidence in him knows no bounds should his grandfather have followed the same calling. This is not mere fatuous belief in heredity, but is based on the supposed value of old prescriptions passed on from grandfather to grandson.

"Tons vary according to the physician's social class and that of his patients and also according to the physician's place of residence. The enormous sum of perhaps 15 American cents or half a dollar at the most may be charged for a visit if the doctor sits in a sedan chair. Of this amount a large proportion goes for the chair. Should the doctor belong to the humble ranks and come on foot his fee is proportionately less. He assumes a solemn air and owl-like look as he peers out of the round-rimmed goggles of a Chinese bedroom through great goggle-shaped glasses—two inches across and set in huge uncouth copper frame.
"Most important in diagnosing a case, according to Chinese ideas, is the feeling of the different pulses of the pa-man system. The pulse at each wrist is felt. By thus feeling the pulses the states of a dozen real or imaginary organs are determined. Having thus learned by the pressure at these pulses

the seat of the disease, a few questions may be asked, but these are considered scarcely necessary. A prescription sometimes calling for the most horrible and nauseating compounds is prepared in large doses, for the native believes that the larger the dose the more likely it is to prove efficacious. In prescribing for natives the foreign doctors have to give the strictest injunctions that the paper box in which the pills are contained is not to be swallowed.

"The manner in which the Chinese treat their physicians is characteristic.
Should a speedy cure not result from the doctor's treatment the patient calls in another. If he does not improve he calls in a third. Thus the medical skill of the whole neighborhood may be drawn upon."

Sound to Have Change.

In the absence of her husband the fascinating young married woman went boating with an old admirer.

"Ah," sighed the old admirer, "if only you had married me instead of Wilkinson."

"Then I should have been with Mr.
Wilkinson at this moment instead of you," said the fascinating woman.
"How strangely things turn out!"—

Catching and Taming Elephants.

In Ceylon the natives capture wild elephants by lassoing them and tying their hind legs to trees. Thus tied, they are left to struggle for four or five days. If the ropes be well secured and knotted the animals struggle in vain, for they are unable to exert their full strength toward getting free.
When they have grown tired of the fruitless fight they are tied by the neck between two tame elephants and marched off to the tea plantations or the railroad, where they are put to work. Under the tuition of tame elephants they learn rapidly to perform the labor that is required of them and soon are able to lay railroad ties accurately.

Aroused His Curiosity.

"John," exclaimed the nervous woman, "there's a burglar in the house!"
"Do you mean to tell me that after I tried every door and window in my effort to get into my own house, just because I happened to mislay my latchkey, a burglar comes along and wakes you up at the first rattle of the doorknob? I'm going down to see him."
"What are you going to do?"
"I'm going to interview him and see if I can find out how he did it."—

Girls Can't Marry
Till Debt is Paid

(By United Press)

Anoka, Sept. 20.—The federation of women's clubs passed a rule barring girls who are assisted through the senior university year by the federation from marrying before the indebtedness is paid. Mrs. L. D. Brown, Little Falls; Mrs. Peter Olson, Cloquet; Mrs. Wm. Russell, Moorhead, took the prominent parts in today's session.

DAUGHTER DIED

Mrs. Lucy A. Bacon Called to Thief River Falls by Death of Mrs. Arthur Chase

Mrs. Lucy A. Bacon, 1920 Fir street, received news of the death of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Chase, of Thief River Falls, who died early this morning following childbirth. She is survived by her husband, three children, Edward, Adeline and Evelyn and the baby just born. Mrs. Bacon has gone to Thief River Falls to attend the funeral.

PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

First Meeting of Season Was Held at the Home of Mrs. E. S. Whitlock

The Parent-Teachers association of Southeast Brainerd held its first meeting for the year, Monday evening, September 18, at the home of Mrs. E. S. Whitlock, 1620 Oak street. An inspiring program consisting of music and readings was given. Mrs. Thayer was chosen as president, Mrs. Greeno vice president and Miss Esther Kastner secretary for the coming year.

After the meeting a social hour was spent and the ladies of the association served a most delicious luncheon. This association will hold its regular meetings the second Monday evening of each month, and a cordial invitation is extended to all interested.

Schelin-Anderson

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday evening, Sept. 19, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Schelin when their daughter, Maybelle Alvenia, was united in marriage to Mr. William Edward Anderson, Rev. A. B. Colvin of the Swedish Baptist church officiating.

To the sweet tones of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Georgia Shertind, the wedding party entered the parlor and proceeded to the beautiful bower of Norway pines and cosmos where the words were spoken which united the happy young couple for life, the pretty ring service being used.

Miss Selma Schelin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor while Mr. George Berggreen acted as groomsmen. Just before the ceremony Miss Anna Michaelson sang, "When Song is Sweet," by Gertrude Sans Souci. At the conclusion of the ceremony Mrs. Nels Johnson, sister of the bridegroom, sang "All For You," by Guy D'Hardelot. About fifty invited guests were present at the happy event.

The bride was sweetly attired in white silk crepe de chine and carried a large bouquet of white roses. Her bridal veil was decked with lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was daintily attired in pink silk crepe de chine and carried a large bouquet of pink roses. The gentlemen wore the conventional black.

The home was beautifully decorated with ferns, roses and other flowers. Displayed in the sitting room were the many beautiful, costly and useful wedding gifts showing the love and esteem in which the young couple are held by their many friends. A sumptuous wedding dinner was served in the dining room.

The bride is an accomplished young lady and a very popular trained nurse being a graduate in the class of 1914 of the Northwestern hospital training school for nurses. The bridegroom is one of Brainerd's most popular and well liked young men and is an efficient machinist in the employ of the Northern Pacific Railway Co. Both of the young people have a host of friends who join in the heartiest congratulations and the very best of wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson for a long, happy and prosperous married life.

The happy young couple left today for a two weeks wedding trip in the lake region after which they will make their home in Brainerd.

MINNEAPOLIS MINISTER

Rev. G. Plumer Merrill will Occupy the Pulpit at the Peoples Congregational Church

A special service will be held in the Peoples Congregational church this Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. G. Plumer Merrill of Minneapolis will occupy the pulpit. Dr. Merrill is superintendent of the Congregational churches in Northern Minnesota and has had some fascinating experiences in the Northland. It will pay anybody to hear him; he will enthuse you with a message of power.

After the service Dr. Merrill wishes to meet all the members and donors of the church to make arrangements for a resident minister.

It is hoped every effort will be made to secure a large congregation.

Jet and Colored Stones are Much in Evidence—Velvet and Satin Popular

In reviewing the latest French collections one is much impressed with the extensive use of jet and colored stones. Many of the most attractive evening gowns are of black satin, or tulle, with an intricate tracery of flashing jet on the bodice and skirt. Doenillet's model "Imperia" is a particularly successful exponent of jet trimming. It is made of black satin and gold brocade, and has shoulder straps, sirdle and skirt edge of jet and gold. Premet shows a lovely model of gray and gold brocade, gleaming through gray tulle which is embroidered with blue stones and flashing crystal.

Disregarding the metal brocade which give brilliancy to so many of the new evening gowns, velvet and satin are far and beyond the most popular materials of the new season. Many of the most effective new frocks and suits are made entirely of velvet, or in the case of frocks, velvet combined with georgette crepe. One particularly successful model is of a very dark-greenish blue velvet and crepe. The skirt below the hips is made of the velvet which is put on in large round scallops to a full yoke of the crepe, which exactly matches the velvet in tone. The bodice is of the crepe, with a broad belt, and straps across the shoulders made of the velvet.

The Chinese motif is becoming more conspicuous. One of Premet's most attractive frocks is made of dark blue serge, with large oval designs in old blue and yellow Chinese embroidery down the front. This embroidery is an exact duplication of the design employed on a lovely old Chinese scarf.

A very smart waist in one of the French collections is made of navy-blue georgette crepe, with a Chinese dragon design delicately outlined on the collar, belt and the front of the bodice in fine wool thread of a dull reddish brown tone. Another model has the most fascinating buttons, obviously a Chinese inspiration. These are square tubes covered with dark blue silk, about which are wound dull blue, and red and gold cords.—From H. W. Gossard Corset Co., courtesy H. F. Michael Co.

DISPATCH WANT ADS PAY

Was It an Anniversary Ghost?

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

One night—it was 12 o'clock—a cabman was jogging along through Wall street, New York, half asleep on his box, when he was accosted from the sidewalk by a man whose apparel made coachy blink his eyes to assure himself that he saw aright. To begin at the top of his head, he wore a beaver hat with a large bell crown and a rim curled at the sides. His coat was very high in the collar, his necktie was voluminous lace, the buttons on his clothes were brass, his breeches were what we call knickerbockers.

Coachy drove to the sidewalk, and the gentleman, without asking permission, opened the door and stepped inside.

"To Greenwich," he called as he closed the door behind him. "Up Greenwich street, sir?" "Yes."

That part of New York which was originally Greenwich Village is several miles from where the stranger entered the coach, and the cabman would rather have declined to make a fare so late in the evening. But there was something about the stranger that was compelling. When the cab reached Greenwich and cabby asked for further instructions the man inside only said, "Drive on." Cabby seemed awed by the tone in which the words were spoken and dared not ask another question, so he drove on in the direction he was going, northward, till he reached the river bank. The man inside stepped from the cab without calling on coachy to stop, and when he touched the ground there seemed not to be the slightest shock. As he walked away he fixed his eyes on the cabman with a look that made him forget all about the omission to pay the fare. Indeed, a cold chill ran down the man's back. Going to the margin of the river, his figure seemed to float along, growing more and more indistinct till it was lost, as cabby thought, in the water. But this could not be, for there came from where he had disappeared a sound of oars. The sound passed up the river, gradually dying away in the distance.

Now, although the stranger had given no orders to the cabman to await his return, the latter felt no power to do otherwise. He did not think that by going away he would lose the money he had already earned; he remained fixed where he was by the look his fare had given him when he walked away with that unearthly tread.

It was the season when the days are long and dawn begins about 3 o'clock. Coachy sat for perhaps an hour, perhaps two—he could never recall how long it was—waiting there on the river bank, with no human being near, for he says that he was not conscious of the surrounding traffic of the present day. He saw about him only the green bank of the river, behind him the village, in which all were wrapped in slumber. But he is not sure that he was awake, not sure but that he was dreaming. At any rate, he was oblivious to the stranger's return, for the first he knew of it he heard a voice ordering him to drive home. Rousing himself and looking down from the box, he saw his fare's face thrust without the window, looking up at him. The cabman will never forget that face. It was singularly handsome, though so pale as to be rather of the dead than of the living. The expression was that of one who had committed some dreadful crime, one who had killed some one. But in it there was no remorse. It was rather triumphant.

"Home!" said the stranger. The cabman did not know and did not dare ask where home was. He knew that he had taken up his fare on Wall street, and for that location he headed.

In the twilight the city seemed changed. All the landmarks of a metropolis were missing.

Turning out of Broadway at Wall street, he drove down till he reached the point where Broad joins it. This was where he had taken up his fare. Here, too, was not the office of the great banking house which is there, but a small brick dwelling. The stranger called on him to stop, and he drove up to the curb.

Coachy says that when this singular being alighted he cast his eye at a dwelling on the opposite side of Wall street a short distance down toward the East river and looked for a moment at it with malignant triumph; then, turning, without mentioning the money he owed for his ride, he mounted the steps of a dwelling before him and seemed to pass through the door without opening it.

Coachy was found that morning in a stupor on his box and about to fall. He was removed to a hospital, whence he did not emerge for several weeks. When he did so he narrated the adventure of that memorable night to a gentleman who happened to be a scholar. All the information he received was this:

The house the strange man entered was once occupied by Aaron Burr. Alexander Hamilton lived on the opposite side of Wall street a little way farther down toward the East river. The night of the adventure was the hundredth anniversary of the duel fought between Hamilton and Burr, in which Hamilton was killed.

Perhaps the vision came to the cabman as he was entering a severe illness rather than being the cause of it. The singular feature is that it should have come to an illiterate man.

Homeloving Mosquitos
Harmless Creatures

(By United Press)

Washington, Sept. 20.—Quiet, home-loving, family-rearing mosquitoes, which dine out on human beings and then go home, are not dangerous, says the U. S. public service in a bulletin today, however, it says it in more scientific phraseology.

It is only the merry rounders, the epicureans of the anopheles family, who go sipping here and there, and stagger away with a veritable epidemic debauch, that are dangerous.

But one mosquito in one hundred, say the government bugologists, is a possible infecting agent, and the female of the species is more deadly than the male.

In making the experiments, five physicians and others volunteered to entertain the mosquitoes at luncheon. A very short exposure to bites was found to be sufficient for contraction of malaria.

The Dairy as a Temple.

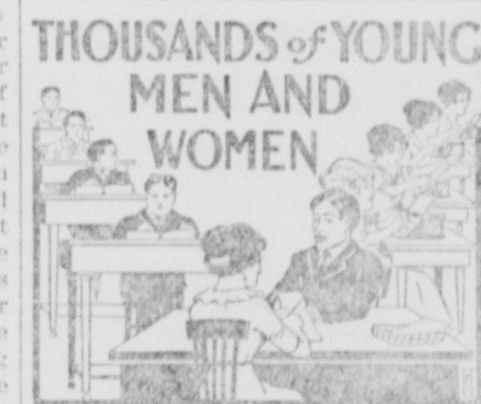

The people called the Todas, living in the Nilgiri hills, India, have a curious religious ritual evolved out of the ordinary operations of the dairy. The priest is the dairymaid, and the temple is the dairy. Only the milk of the sacred buffalo is churned in the dairy temple. The milk of buffaloes that are not "sacred" is churned in the front part of the huts in which the people live. The dairy temples are of different degrees of sanctity, corresponding to the different degrees of sanctity of the buffaloes tended in each. Even the vessels used in a dairy temple vary in sanctity, those that contain the milk being more sacred than those that only receive the products of the churning.

Reflection.

We are told, "Let not the sun go down on your wrath." This, of course, is best, but as it generally does I would add, "never act or write till it has done so." This rule has saved me from many an act of folly. It is wonderful what a different view we take of the same event a day after it has happened.—Sydney Smith.

Will be required to carry on the business of this country, this state and this city during the coming year.

Business is calling for more trained workers now than ever before. The demand is constantly increasing and you know that a lively demand means good salaries. A business position offers pleasant employment at a good salary, among congenial surroundings. And there is always opportunity for advancement. A few months' training now will start you on the road upward.

The door of advancement is shut to the untrained man and woman. Education is the passport that opens it. You can get this training if you want it. You can succeed if you will.

Stenographer, private secretary, manager of a department, president of the firm—it seems like magic, doesn't it? Yet this is the record of many young people who were able to advance by just such strides and in a comparatively short time.

We can name dozens, yes hundreds, of instances like this, where the advance of a young man or woman can be definitely traced back to a stenographic position.

Now is the time to start.

A Story of 2 Tramps

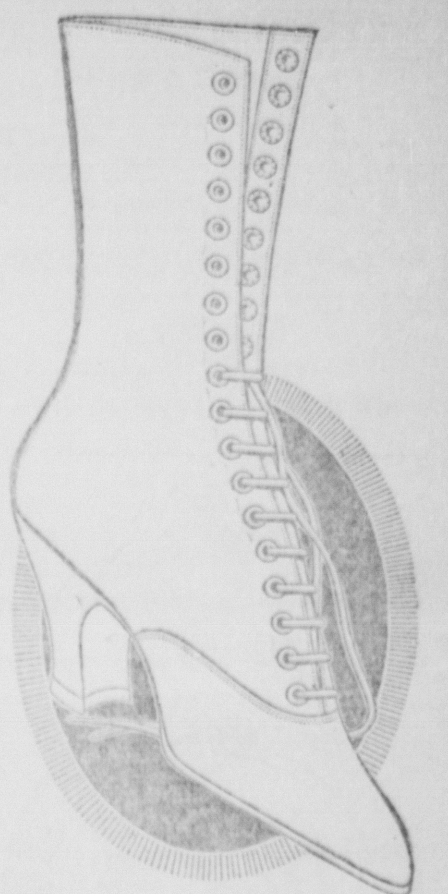

(By United Press)

Columbus, O., Sept. 20.—Fifteen years ago, two tramps became fast friends in a Memphis, Tennessee saloon. One of them was Jack London, the author, and the other Jerry Hogan, Sandusky horse thief and editorial writer for the Ohio penitentiary weekly newspaper. Jerry talked out it today:

"We were pals—Jack and I. For fifteen years we hoboed together through the south. But he had ambition and I didn't—that's the whole story. The tramp life we led didn't kill his ambition. We both wrote articles and sold 'em fifty-fifty. Sometimes Jack signed his name to my articles and sometimes I signed my name to his—it didn't make any difference. But ambition for an education carried Jack to South America and we parted as he was climbing on the boat at Pensacola, Fla. I haven't seen him from that day to this. 'Wish you were going along, Jerry,' he waved goodbye at me, 'I feel I'm going to make good from now on.' And his dreams have come true. He went up the ladder while I went down. Today his name is famous and he writes for thousands. The only name I've got now is a number and I write for a poor hundred or so convicts in the pen paper here."

Doenillet's model "Imperia" is a particularly successful exponent of jet trimming. It is made of black satin and gold brocade, and has shoulder straps, airdle and skirt edge of jet and gold. Premet shows a lovely model of gray and gold brocade, gleaming through gray tulle which is embroidered with blue stones and flashing crystal.

Disregarding the metal brocades which give brilliancy to so many of the new evening gowns, velvet and satin are far and beyond the most popular materials of the new season. Many of the most effective new frocks and suits are made entirely of velvet, or in the case of frocks, velvet combined with georgette crepe. One particularly successful model is of a very dark-greenish blue velvet and crepe. The skirt below the hips is made of the velvet which is put on in large round scallops to a full yoke of the crepe, which exactly matches the velvet in tone. The bodice is of the crepe, with a broad belt, and straps across the shoulders made of the velvet.

The Chinese motif is becoming more conspicuous. One of Premet's most attractive frocks is made of dark blue serge, with large oval designs in old blue and yellow Chinese embroidery down the front. This embroidery is an exact duplication of the design employed on a lovely old Chinese scarf.

A very smart waist in one of the French collections is made of navy-blue georgette crepe, with a Chinese dragon design delicately outlined on the collar, belt and the front of the bodice in fine wool thread of a dull reddish brown tone. Another model has the most fascinating buttons, obviously a Chinese inspiration. These are square tubes covered with dark blue silk, about which are wound dull blue, and red and gold cords.—From H. W. Gossard Corset Co., courtesy H. F. Michael Co.

Stuff Keyholes to Hide Corsets on Live Models
 At the Fashion Show
 Chicago, Sept. 20.—The keyholes to all the doors leading in to the corset display room at the Fashion Art League Show here today were stuffed up to keep mere men from seeing pretty models put on and take off the very latest in corsets for the women artists and buyers. Designers declared the new corsets will make the feminine figure more perfect and distracting than ever before.

DISPATCH WANT ADS PAY

Was It an Anniversary Ghost?

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

One night—it was 12 o'clock—a cabman was joggling along through Wall street, New York, half asleep on his box, when he was accosted from the sidewalk by a man whose apparel made coachy blink his eyes to assure himself that he saw aright. To begin at the top of his head, he wore a beaver hat with a large bell crown and a rim curled at the sides. His coat was very high in the collar, his necktie was voluminous lace, the buttons on his clothes were brass, his breeches were what we call knickerbockers.

Coachy drove to the sidewalk, and the gentleman, without asking permission, opened the door and stepped inside.

"To Greenwich," he called as he closed the door behind him.

"Up Greenwich street, sir?"

"Yes."

That part of New York which was originally Greenwich Village is several miles from where the stranger entered the coach, and the cabman would rather have declined to make a fare so late in the evening. But there was something about the stranger that was compelling. When the cab reached Greenwich and coachy asked for further instructions the man inside only said, "Drive on." Coachy seemed awed by the tone in which the words were spoken and dared not ask another question, so he drove on in the direction he was going, northward, till he reached the river bank. The man inside stepped from the cab without calling on coachy to stop, and when he touched the ground there seemed not to be the slightest shock. As he walked away he fixed his eyes on the cabman with a look that made him forget all about the omission to pay the fare. Indeed, a cold chill ran down the man's back. Going to the margin of the river, his figure seemed to float along, growing more and more indistinct till it was lost, as coachy thought, in the water. But this could not be, for there came from where he had disappeared a sound of oars. The sound passed up the river, gradually dying away in the distance.

Now, although the stranger had given no orders to the cabman to await his return, the latter felt no power to do otherwise. He did not think that by going away he would lose the money he had already earned; he remained fixed where he was by the look his fare had given him when he walked away with that unearthly tread.

It was the season when the days are long and dawn begins about 3 o'clock. Coachy sat for perhaps an hour, perhaps two—he could never recall how long it was—waiting there on the river bank, with no human being near, for he says that he was not conscious of the surrounding traffic of the present day. He saw about him only the green bank of the river, behind him the village, in which all were wrapped in slumber. But he is not sure that he was awake, not sure but that he was dreaming. At any rate, he was oblivious to the stranger's return, for the first he knew of it he heard a voice ordering him to drive home. Rousing himself and looking down from the box, he saw his fare's face thrust without the window, looking up at him. The cabman will never forget that face. It was singularly handsome, though so pale as to be rather of the dead than of the living. The expression was that of one who had committed some dreadful crime, one who had killed some one. But in it there was no remorse. It was rather triumph.

"Home!" said the stranger. The cabman did not know and did not dare ask where home was. He knew that he had taken up his fare on Wall street, and for that location he headed.

In the twilight the city seemed changed. All the landmarks of a metropolis were missing. Turning out of Broadway at Wall street, he drove down till he reached the point where Broad joins it. This was where he had taken up his fare. Here, too, was not the office of the great banking house which is there, but a small brick dwelling. The stranger called on him to stop, and he drove up to the curb.

Coachy says that when this singular being alighted he cast his eye at a dwelling on the opposite side of Wall street a short distance down toward the East river and looked for a moment at it with malignant triumph; then, turning without mentioning the money he owed for his ride, he mounted the steps of a dwelling before him and seemed to pass through the door without opening it.

Coachy was found that morning in a stupor on his box and about to fall. He was removed to a hospital, whence he did not emerge for several weeks. When he did so he narrated the adventure of that memorable night to a gentleman who happened to be a scholar. All the information he received was this:

The house the strange man entered was once occupied by Aaron Burr. Alexander Hamilton lived on the opposite side of Wall street a little way farther down toward the East river. The night of the adventure was the hundredth anniversary of the duel fought between Hamilton and Burr, in which Hamilton was killed.

Perhaps the vision came to the cabman as he was entering a severe illness rather than being the cause of it. The singular feature is that it should have come to an illiterate man.

Homeloving Mosquitos Harmless Creatures

(By United Press)

Washington, Sept. 20.—Quiet, home-loving, family-rearing mosquitoes, which dine out on human beings and then go home, are not dangerous, says the U. S. public service in a bulletin today, however, it says it in more scientific phraseology.

It is only the merry rounders, the epicureans of the anopheles family, who go sipping here and there, and stagger away with a veritable epidermal debauch, that are dangerous.

But one mosquito in one hundred, say the government bugologists, is a possible infecting agent, and the female of the species is more deadly than the male.

In making the experiments, five physicians and others volunteered to entertain the mosquitoes at luncheon. A very short exposure to bites was found to be sufficient for contraction of malaria.

The Dairy as a Temple.

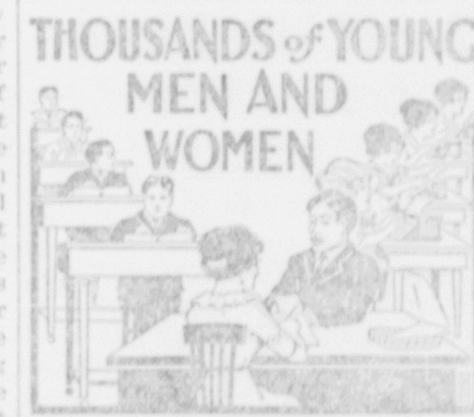

The people called the Todas, living in the Nilgiri hills, India, have a curious religious ritual evolved out of the ordinary operations of the dairy. The priest is the dairymaid, and the temple is the dairy. Only the milk of the sacred buffalo is churned in the dairy temple. The milk of buffaloes that are not "sacred" is churned in the front part of the huts in which the people live. The dairy temples are of different degrees of sanctity, corresponding to the different degrees of sanctity of the buffaloes tended in each. Even the vessels used in a dairy temple vary in sanctity, those that contain the milk being more sacred than those that only receive the products of the churning.

Reflection.

We are told, "Let not the sun go down on your wrath." This, of course, is best, but as it generally does I would add, "never act or write till it has done so." This rule has saved me from many an act of folly. It is wonderful what a different view we take of the same event a day after it has happened.—Sydney Smith.

THOUSANDS OF YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN

Will be required to carry on the business of this country, this state and this city during the coming year. Business is calling for more trained workers now than ever before. The demand is constantly increasing and you know that a lively demand means good salaries. A business position offers pleasant employment at a good salary, among congenial surroundings. And there is always opportunity for advancement. A few months' training now will start you on the road upward.

The door of advancement is shut to the untrained man and woman. Education is the passport that opens it. You can get this training if you want it. You can succeed if you will.

Stenographer, private secretary, manager of a department, president of the firm—it seems like magic, doesn't it? Yet this is the record of many young people who were able to advance by just such strides and in a comparatively short time.

We can name dozens, yes hundreds, of instances like this, where the advance of a young man or woman can be definitely traced back to a stenographic position.

Now is the time to start.

A Story of 2 Tramps

(By United Press)

Columbus, O., Sept. 20.—Fifteen years ago, two tramps became fast friends in a Memphis, Tennessee saloon. One of them was Jack London, the author, and the other Jerry Hogan, Sandusky horse thief and editorial writer for the Ohio penitentiary weekly newspaper. Jerry talked out it today:

"We were pals—Jack and I. For fifteen years we hoboed together through the south. But he had ambition and I didn't—that's the whole story. The tramp life we led didn't kill his ambition. We both wrote articles and sold 'em fifty-fifty. Sometimes Jack signed his name to my articles and sometimes I signed my name to his—it didn't make any difference. But ambition for an education carried Jack to South America and we parted as he was climbing on the boat at Pensacola, Fla. I haven't seen him from that day to this. 'Wish you were going along, Jerry,' he waved goodbye at me, 'I fell I'm going to make good from now on.' And his dreams have come true. He went up the ladder while I went down. Today his name is famous and he writes for thousands. The only name I've got now is a number and I write for a poor hundred or so convicts in the pen paper here."

One of the exquisite models we have just received is the White Papi high boot with white verry sole and heel lift.

500 Postmasters
are in Convention

(By United Press)

Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 20.—Five hundred members of the National League of Postmasters are here today in annual convention. The association includes postmasters of the third and fourth class of all the postoffices in the country. Fourth Assistant Postmaster General James I. Blakeslee of Washington, D. C., will address the mail gentlemen.

A motion picture showing the various stages through which a letter goes from the time it is dropped into the mail box by the sender until it is delivered at its destination, will be shown. The general public will be admitted to this exhibition. The meetings are being held in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Confederate Veterans
to Return the Flag

(By United Press)

Newark, O., Sept. 20.—The battle scarred flag of the seventy-sixth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, lost in a hard fight with the "Johnnies" at Ringgold, Georgia, more than fifty years ago, will be returned by the Confederate veterans to the union survivors of the Ohio regiment at their annual reunion here today.

The seventy-sixth was ambushed at Ringgold Gap by the Confederates and suffered heavy losses before retreating. Every color bearer of the regiment, save one, Sergeant Montgomery, was killed. The flag was captured by the first Alabama regiment which charged the Buckeye soldiers who, in the face of superior numbers, fled.

The flag will be brought here today by a committee consisting of Governor-Elect C. H. Brough of Arkansas and Colonel J. R. Gibbons of Little Rock. Governor-Elect Brough is a nephew of John Brough, one of Ohio's wartime governors. His mother was a native of the south while his father was a soldier in the union army. He has taken an active part in negotiations for the return of the flag.

Speaking for the representatives of the regiment which captured the flag, Governor-Elect Brough will turn the flag over to Governor Willis, who will accept it on behalf of the Buckeye state.

Sergeant Montgomery, the surviving color bearer of the regiment, who resides in Newark, Ohio, will receive the banner on behalf of the regiment. The 76th was recruited here.

An Essay on Woman.

A woman is sometimes fugitive, irrational, indeterminate, illogical and contradictory. A good deal of forbearance ought to be shown her and a good deal of prudence exercised with regard to her, for she may bring about innumerable evils without knowing it. Capable of all kinds of devotion and of all kinds of treason, "monster incompressible," raised to the second power, she is at once the delight and the terror of man.—Amiel.

The Daring Little Humming Bird.

Courage has little or no relation to bodily size. The humming bird is the smallest of birds, but also one of the most fearless and pugnacious. He attacks kingbirds and hawks, and those tyrannical creatures, though of monstrous size in comparison, seem not at all ashamed to fly from his onsets. The flights of humming birds among themselves are often fierce and protracted.

BLACK DIAMOND TRAIL

maps and facts and figures relative to their respective routes so that the trustees may act accordingly and that the secretary notify those interested of next meeting so that they may report to same.

Motion made by Mr. Albright and duly carried that we proceed to locate the Black Diamond Trail from Duluth to Fargo as far as possible and that the trustees of each county furnish the Secretary of the association with a sectional map showing such location. From Duluth take the Duluth-Twin City highway to the Carlton county line connecting with state road No. 4. Thence on highway No. 4 through city of Cloquet to rural highway No. 11, thence due west across Carlton county 36 1/2 miles to Aitkin county, making a mileage of 43 1/2 miles in Carlton county.

AITKIN COUNTY

Starting at end of Carlton road take the road known as the Duluth-Moorhead west across Aitkin county to Cedar Lake station, about 40 miles.

Crow Wing, Morrison and Cass counties to be designated later.

WADENA COUNTY

Following Jefferson highway from where it enters Wadena county to the village of Wadena, leaving Jefferson trail at corner of Averill and 3rd, going west on Averill, following the Yellow trail to west line of Ottertail county.

OTTERTAIL COUNTY

Following Yellow trail to where it leaves Wadena county through Bluffton and to New York Mills, Luce to north line of Ottertail county.

BECKER COUNTY

Commencing at Becker-Ottertail line, 1/2 mile south of Frazee, following line of N. P. R. R. to a point on Clay-Becker line, 4 miles west of Lake Park, following the state highway.

CLAY COUNTY

Following the state highway along the line of the N. P. R. R. through Hawley, Glyndon, Dillworth through Moorhead and into Fargo by way of South Bridge.

Moved by Mr. Albright and seconded by Mr. Olson that the present permanent location of the Black Diamond Trail be as designated by the reporting trustees.

It was moved and carried that the secretary be empowered to purchase such stencils as are necessary for marking the trail.

Moved that the secretary be instructed to correspond with State Auto association about danger signals.

Moved that the next meeting be the second Monday in October at Brainerd at 3:00 p. m., October the 9th.

Blueberry Cakes.

Under such favorable conditions as exist in the vine barrens blueberry culture is to be classed as to the age of its first bearing not with the slow fruiting apple orchard, but with the quick fruiting peach, with this important difference, however, that while the peach tree remains in vigorous fruiting condition for comparatively few years the blueberry bush with suitable pruning bids fair to last a man's lifetime and even longer.—National Geographic Magazine.

Cracked the Whip

BY V. E. MICHEL,

United Press Staff Correspondent

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 20.—Dr. H. L. Williams, Minnesota football coach, today cracked the whip that burst through the conference ice of fall practice rulings, and started Gopher football practice.

Under the ruling of the Big Nine, no university is allowed to assemble or practice its men, before Sept. 20. There is no rule against aspirants for the squad kicking the pigskin around their own backyard prior to that time, so long as the university coach is not officially connected with the individual practice. Many Gopher aspirants did this.

It was a husky bunch that lined up before the sphinx-like Williams this afternoon. They were told that a long steady grind is ahead of them. Terrors of the practice grilling were pictured, while the prospects smiled grimly.

Minnesota's team this year will not be a heavy one, nor will it have individual stars, but it will be a well balanced bunch. Smooth running efficiency is what the squad looks like. The chances are that the men will line up about as last year when there was not a single 200 pound man in the squad.

Bastion, Williams, Sinclair, Hartwig, Tomasek, Allendorfer, Long, Wyman, Sprafka, Mayer, Townley and Teyman were all expected back before the end of the week. Long, Wyman and Sprafka, veteran backs, have been working together this summer at Sprafka's Perham, Minn., home.

School will start next Monday.

University Squad
Starts Training

(By United Press)

St. Louis, Sept. 20.—Coach Earl Painter has started the St. Louis University football squad on its grind of training for the coming season. Forty-two huskies answered the coach's call today for maulskin wearers. It was the biggest tryout squad at the Blue and White campus in years. Most of the gridiron candidates knew something of football, because of their drilling last spring when Painter had the squad running signals and figuring formations.

Barred from Russia
Because he was Jew

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS

United Press Staff Correspondent

Petrograd, Aug. 18.—By mail—Dr. Judah Leon Magnes, noted New York rabbi was barred from Russia not because he was a Jew, but because his public utterance had classified him as a pro-German. Attorney Henry Shozberg, a leading member of the Jewish relief committee, and for 30 years an active Israelite worker, made this statement today. He explains why Dr. Magnes was refused admission to Russia after he had come to Europe to distribute a fund for the relief of the Jewish refugees from the war zone, raised in America.

"I am not acquainted with Dr. Magnes personally, but I knew him by reputation as a man of honest conviction," said Shozberg. "He possesses a sterling character, but if he is correctly quoted as to utterances, he is said to have made in speeches, I am not surprised he was excluded from Russia. The same action would have been taken in England, France or America, if America were at war."

"Dr. Magnes was not barred because he was a Jew, but because of his opinions, I am positive some other Jew would have been admitted. I am sorry he was barred, for if he had come to Petrograd I am confident I could have convinced him that Jews are Russians first and Jews afterwards. As a Jew I simply asked myself as which was best for my people, a German victory or a Russian victory, and I am convinced a Russian victory would be best."

"I believe I could have convinced Dr. Magnes of this. If his coreligionists aboard are desirous of aiding the cause of the Jews they will serve best by aiding the allies."

Dr. Magnes was halted at Stockholm by the refusal of the Russian government to permit him to enter. At his New York offices it was said he was now in Germany.

Players Fraternity
Watching Contract

BY HAMILTON,

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

New York, Sept. 20.—Any attempt on the part of baseball magnates to slash wholesale at contracts terminating this year will be strongly opposed by the players' fraternity, David L. Fultz, president of the organization declared today in an interview with the United Press.

The fraternity expects the magnates to make some attempt to cut salaries which were boosted when the Federal League was causing so much trouble. Since then many of the stars whose salaries went to new high marks have faltered and are now doing no shining at all. In spite of this the big pay is going right along and most of it on long term contracts.

Many contracts have salaries stipulated in them while others do not. Some of them merely quote salaries for one year, with a provision that the following year shall see the same salaries paid while still others quote salaries for one year with no provision for the other years at all.

It is at this point, Fultz said, where the most of the trouble will come. All the contracts contain the reserve clause which holds players over for the club another year. Where the reserve mentions the player's salary and an attempt is made to make a radical reduction, the fraternity is going to take a hand. It will not stand for indiscriminate slashing.

Fultz said that many times magnates have attempted to tear up old contracts which bound them to good salaries for players and to execute new ones with smaller sums stipulated.

"We always have recourse to the commission in cases like this," he said, "and in every instance the commission has ordered the club to live up to its old contract. It does not like to see a club try to abrogate an old contract."

Fultz admitted there is no hope for those players whose contracts are expiring and who have lived off the fat of their reputations since the federals went to pieces. They are entitled to unconditional releases, he said, if waivers are obtained, and that is the best that can be done for them.

The work of Hal Chase at second base lately for the Cincinnati Reds probably is the first time in the memory of present day fans that a left hander has held down the keystone position.

Reports from Cincinnati say Chase is proving a star at his new station. Christy Mathewson says that if he can find a first baseman capable of filling Chase's shoes he will send Prince Hal to the outfield and Heinie Groh or Bill Louden probably will go to second.

Clarence Mitchell, a pitcher, has been doing first base duty for the Reds, with Chase at second.

LEAPS IN THE DARK.

Why the Broncho Jumped in His Wild Race at Midnight.

A former herdsman relates a thrilling personal experience connected with a stampede of cattle. He was taking a herd of 400 steers to Leadville and had camped for the night on Bear river, near its junction with the Little Snake. At midnight, when he went on guard, all was quiet, but in an hour or so, for some unexplained reason, the cattle were up and off like a flash. Something had stampeded them.

He was riding an old blue colored, blue backed California broncho, just the best for the work. He had often ridden him a hundred miles a day. The night was dark and cloudy, and he had to rely on the animal's sure footedness as he strove to stay on the flanks of the steers and turn them until their scare should cease.

It was a wild race. Four or five times the broncho gave tremendous jumps, but landed right and went on in good shape. In the course of an hour or so the man had the beaves quieted.

When daylight came, being curious to learn what obstacles had occasioned those tremendous jumps of the broncho, the man set forth to look over the ground. Leaving the bottom land, the steers had ascended a gentle acclivity, and on the plateau at the top he had kept circling them.

The plateau was intersected by a canyon about four miles long and from 1,500 to 2,000 feet deep. Its walls inclined toward each other at the top, and the distance across was fifteen or twenty feet.

During the chase the broncho had jumped that frightful chasm four times. His hoof marks were plainly visible, and down in the debris, hundreds of feet below, were a dozen mangled steers that had been crowded off.—Los Angeles Times.

More than twice as wide as Niagara falls and fully fifty feet higher, the falls of Igazu, in South America, are one of the great natural wonders of that continent.

BASEBALL STORIES.

Connie Mack's Trick on Cap Anson and the Foul Strike Rule.

There may have been better catches than Connie Mack, but none any fiercer. Connie was with the Pirates back in 1893, when he played a little trick on Cap Anson that won a game for Pittsburgh.

Ad Gumbert was pitching for the Pirates and got himself into a hole. Chicago filled the bases in a hurry, and only one man was out. Cap Anson came to bat.

In those days Cap was a terror to pitchers. The situation was serious. Cap had a way of taking two strikes and then fighting on the third one for fare-ye-well.

And so it was here. Gumbert floated two across, and Cap didn't blink an eye.

Suddenly Connie Mack stepped aside, while Gumbert held the ball, and took off his mask. He wiped his brow, tossed his glove aside and started removing his chest protector.

Anson was amazed. He looked around and glanced with wide open eyes at Mack. "What's the matter, Connie?" he inquired. "Ain't you going to give me a crack at the ball?"

As he spoke Connie signaled to Gumbert, and he whipped a fast one straight across. Mack reached out his chest protector and blocked the ball. Then he grabbed it as it rolled away, touched the plate, forcing the man who was on third, and then, throwing to first, doubled Anson. The Cap was so surprised he didn't even try to run.

Behind every change in rules lies a pretty little romance of one kind or another. According to George Moreland, it was McGraw and Thomas who forced the foul strike rule.

In the early nineties these two men were so adept in knocking fouls until they got one they could hit that they delayed the game indefinitely. It was nothing extraordinary for them to crack out twenty or so fouls in a single time at bat.

Like the expert cricket batter, they could tick the ball at will, just meeting it. They worried pitchers so that finally, in desperation, they would lay one across, waist high, and they'd crown it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Talked Out.

"It says here," said Mrs. Diggin, laying down the paper, "that telephone girls make very satisfactory wives."

"On the theory, I dare say," said Mr. Diggin, "that by the time they marry they have got all the violent conversation out of their systems and really yearn for rest and quiet."—Puck.

The Gilded Man.

At the headquarters of the Orinoco Spanish traditions located the land of El Dorado, "the gilded man," a potentate whose country was so rich in gold dust that he had his body anointed with oil and sprinkled with gold every morning, so that he shone in the sun as though gilded.

Surely.

Bill—I see that the life of a dollar bill is about fourteen months. Jill—Well, if some of them could talk they could testify to a misspent life.—Youkers Statesman.

500 Postmasters
are in Convention

(By United Press)

Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 20.—Five hundred members of the National League of Postmasters are here today in annual convention. The association includes postmasters of the third and fourth class of all the postoffices in the country. Fourth Assistant Postmaster General James I. Blakeslee of Washington, D. C., will address the mail gentlemen.

A motion picture showing the various stages through which a letter goes from the time it is dropped into the mail box by the sender until it is delivered at its destination, will be shown. The general public will be admitted to this exhibition. The meetings are being held in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Confederate Veterans
to Return the Flag

(By United Press)

Newark, O., Sept. 20.—The battle scarred flag of the seventy-sixth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, lost in a hard fight with the "Johnnies" at Ringgold, Georgia, more than fifty years ago, will be returned by the Confederate veterans to the union survivors of the Ohio regiment at their annual reunion here today.

The seventy-sixth was ambushed at Ringgold Gap by the Confederates and suffered heavy losses before retreating. Every color bearer of the regiment, save one, Sergeant Montgomery, was killed. The flag was captured by the first Alabama regiment which charged the Buckeye soldiers who, in the face of superior numbers, fled.

The flag will be brought here today by a committee consisting of Governor-Elect C. H. Brough of Arkansas and Colonel J. R. Gibbons of Little Rock. Governor-Elect Brough is a nephew of John Brough, one of Ohio's wartime governors. His mother was a native of the south while his father was a soldier in the union army. He has taken an active part in negotiations for the return of the flag.

Speaking for the representatives of the regiment which captured the flag, Governor-Elect Brough will turn the flag over to Governor Willis, who will accept it on behalf of the Buckeye state.

Sergeant Montgomery, the surviving color bearer of the regiment, who resides in Newark, Ohio, will receive the banner on behalf of the regiment. The 76th was recruited here.

An Essay on Woman.

A woman is sometimes fugitive, irrational, indeterminate, illogical and contradictory. A good deal of forbearance ought to be shown her and a good deal of prudence exercised with regard to her, for she may bring about innumerable evils without knowing it. Capable of all kinds of devotion and of all kinds of treason, "monster power," raised to the second power, she is at once the delight and the terror of man.—Amiel.

The Daring Little Humming Bird.

Courage has little or no relation to bodily size. The humming bird is the smallest of birds, but also one of the most fearless and pugnacious. He attacks kingbirds and hawks, and those tyrannical creatures, though of monstrous size in comparison, seem not at all daunted to fly from his onsets. The flights of humming birds among themselves are often fierce and protracted.

BLACK DIAMOND TRAIL

maps and facts and figures relative to their respective routes so that the trustees may act accordingly and that the secretary notify those interested of next meeting so that they may report to same.

Motion made by Mr. Albright and duly carried that we proceed to locate the Black Diamond Trail from Duluth to Fargo as far as possible and that the trustees of each county furnish the Secretary of the association with a sectional map showing such location. From Duluth take the Duluth-Twin City highway to the Carlton county line connecting with state road No. 4. Thence on highway No. 4 through city of Cloquet to rural highway No. 11, thence due west across Carlton county 5 1/2 miles to Aitkin county, making a mileage of 43 1/2 miles in Carlton county.

AITKIN COUNTY

Starting at end of Carlton road take the road known as the Duluth-Moorhead west across Aitkin county to Cedar Lake station, about 40 miles.

Crow Wing, Morrison and Cass counties to be designated later.

WADENA COUNTY

Following Jefferson highway from where it enters Wadena county to the village of Wadena, leaving Jefferson trail at corner of Averill and 3rd, going west on Averill, following the Yellow trail to west line of Ottertail county.

OTTERTAIL COUNTY

Following Yellow trail to where it leaves Wadena county through Bluffton and to New York Mills, Luce to north line of Ottertail county.

BECKER COUNTY

Commencing at Becker-Ottertail line, 1/2 mile south of Frazee, following line of N. P. R. R. to a point on Clay-Becker line, 4 miles west of Lake Park, following the state highway.

CLAY COUNTY

Following the state highway along the line of the N. P. R. R. through Hawley, Glyndon, Dillworth through Moorhead and into Fargo by way of South Bridge.

Moved by Mr. Albright and seconded by Mr. Olson that the present permanent location of the Black Diamond Trail be as designated by the reporting trustees.

It was moved and carried that the secretary be empowered to purchase such stencils as are necessary for marking the trail.

Moved that the secretary be instructed to correspond with State Auto association about danger signals.

Moved that the next meeting be the second Monday in October at Brainerd at 2:00 p. m., October the 9th.

WASTING EXCEEDS PRODUCTION

(By United Press)

London, Sept. 20.—Gen. Falkenhayn, until recently chief of the German staff, has directed a letter to his officers declaring that the waste of guns during recent months exceeded the production and that ammunition was dwindling rapidly, says an official communication.

GERMANS AGAINST FRENCH

(By United Press)

Paris, Sept. 20.—The Germans hurled strong forces against the French lines north of Somme last night, there being the most violent counter attacks along the whole front from Cleary to the river. The Tenthers were everywhere checked except at one point where they reached the French trenches.

SERBIANS CAPTURE HILL

(By United Press)

Paris, Sept. 20.—The Serbians captured the well fortified hill east of Berna, the highest peak of Kamagachalan range, after the most violent hand fighting. The Bulgars fought desperately until they were nearly all wiped out, only 50 prisoners being left.

Blueberry Cakes.

Under such favorable conditions as exist in the blueberry country culture is to be classed as to the age of its first bearing not with the slow fruiting apple orchard, but with the quick fruiting peach, with this important difference, however, that while the peach tree remains in vigorous fruiting condition for comparatively few years the blueberry bush with suitable pruning will bear for a man's lifetime and even longer.—National Geographic Magazine.

Cracked the Whip

BY V. E. MICHEL,
United Press Staff Correspondent
Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 20.—Dr. H. L. Williams, Minnesota football coach, today cracked the whip that burst through the conference ice of fall practice rulings, and started Gopher football practice.

Under the ruling of the Big Nine, no university is allowed to assemble or practice its men, before Sept. 20. There is no rule against aspirants for the squad kicking the pizakin around their own backyard prior to that time, so long as the university coach is not officially connected with the individual practice. Many Gopher aspirants did this.

It was a husky bunch that lined up before the sphinx-like Williams this afternoon. They were told that a long steady grind is ahead of them. Terrors of the practice grilling were pictured, while the prospects smiled grimly.

Minnesota's team this year will not be a heavy one, nor will it have individual stars, but it will be a well balanced bunch. Smooth running efficiency is what the squad looks like. The chances are that the men will line up about as last year when there was not a single 200 pound man in the squad.

Boston, Williams, Sinclair, Hartwig, Tomasek, Allendorfer, Long, Wyman, Sprafka, Mayer, Townley and Tayman were all expected back before the end of the week. Long, Wyman and Sprafka, veteran backs, have been working together this summer at Sprafka's Perham, Minn., home.

School will start next Monday.

University Squad
Starts Training

(By United Press)

St. Louis, Sept. 20.—Coach Earl Painter has started the St. Louis University football squad on its grind of training for the coming season. Forty-two huskies answered the coach's call today for moleakin wearers. It was the biggest tryout squad at the Blue and White campus in years. Most of the gridiron candidates knew something of football, because of their drilling last spring when Painter had the squad running signals and figuring formations.

Barred from Russia
Because he was Jew

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SUMMS
United Press Staff Correspondent

Petrograd, Aug. 18.—By mail.—Dr. Judah Leon Magnes, noted New York rabbi was barred from Russia not because he was a Jew, but because his public utterance had classified him as a pro-German. Attorney Henry Silozberg, a leading member of the Jewish relief committee, and for 30 years an active Israelite worker, made this statement today. He explains why Dr. Magnes was refused admission to Russia after he had come to Europe to distribute a fund for the relief of the Jewish refugees from the war zone, raised in America.

"I am not acquainted with Dr. Magnes personally, but I knew him by reputation as a man of honest conviction," said Silozberg. "He possesses a sterling character, but if he is correctly quoted as to utterances, he is said to have made in speeches, I am not surprised he was excluded from Russia. The same action would have been taken in England, France or America, if America were at war."

"Dr. Magnes was not barred because he was a Jew, but because of his opinions. I am positive some other Jew would have been admitted. I am sorry he was barred, for if he had come to Petrograd I am confident I could have convinced him that Jews are Russians first and Jews afterwards. As a Jew I simply asked myself as which was best for my people, a German victory or a Russian victory, and I am convinced a Russian victory would be best."

"I believe I could have convinced Dr. Magnes of this. If his coreligionists aboard are desirous of aiding the cause of the Jews they will serve best by aiding the allies."

Dr. Magnes was halted at Stockholm by the refusal of the Russian government to permit him to enter. At his New York offices it was said he was now in Germany.

Could Not Do Her Cooking

Mrs. F. E. Hartmeister, Tea, Mo., writes: "I was affected with kidney trouble for two years. I got so bad this summer I could hardly do my cooking. I got Foley Kidney Pills and I feel like a new person." Too many women neglect symptoms of kidney derangement, weak back, swollen ankles and joints, aches, pains and rheumatism. H. P. Players Fraternity
Watching Contract

BY HAMILTON,

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

New York, Sept. 20.—Any attempt on the part of baseball magnates to slash wholesale at contracts terminating this year will be strongly opposed by the players' fraternity, David L. Fultz, president of the organization declared today in an interview with the United Press.

The fraternity expects the magnates to make some attempt to cut salaries which were boosted when the Federal League was causing so much trouble. Since then many of the stars whose salaries went to new high marks have faltered and are now doing no shining at all. In spite of this the big pay is going right along and most of it on long term contracts.

Many contracts have salaries stipulated in them while others do not. Some of them merely quote salaries for one year, with a provision that the following year shall see the same salaries paid while still others quote salaries for one year with no provision for the other years at all.

It is at this point, Fultz said, where the most of the trouble will come. All the contracts contain the reserve clause which holds players over for the club another year. Where the reserve mentions the player's salary and an attempt is made to make a radical reduction, the fraternity is going to take a hand. It will not stand for indiscriminate slashing.

Fultz said that many times magnates have attempted to tear up old contracts which bound them to good salaries for players and to execute new ones with smaller sums stipulated.

"We always have recourse to the commission in cases like this," he said, "and in every instance the commission has ordered the club to live up to its old contract. It does not like to see a club try to abrogate an old contract."

Fultz admitted there is no hope for those players whose contracts are expiring and who have lived off the fat of their reputations since the federals went to pieces. They are entitled to unconditional releases, he said, if waivers are obtained, and that is the best that can be done for them.

The work of Hal Chase at second base lately for the Cincinnati Reds probably is the first time in the memory of present day fans that a left hander has held down the keystone station.

Reports from Cincinnati say Chase is proving a star at his new station. Christy Mathewson says that if he can find a first baseman capable of filling Chase's shoes he will send Prince Hal to the outfield and Heinie Groh or Bill Louden probably will go to second.

Clarence Mitchell, a pitcher, has been doing first base duty for the Reds, with Chase at second.

LEAPS IN THE DARK.

Why the Broncho Jumped in His Wild Race at Midnight.

A former herdsman relates a thrilling personal experience connected with a stampede of cattle. He was taking a herd of 400 steers to Leadville and had camped for the night on Bear river, near its junction with the Little Snake. At midnight, when he went on guard, all was quiet, but in an hour or so, for some unexplained reason, the cattle were up and off like a flash. Something had stampeded them.

He was riding an old blue colored, line backed California broncho, just the beast for the work. He had often ridden him a hundred miles a day. The night was dark and cloudy, and he had to rely on the animal's sure footedness as he strove to stay on the flanks of the steers and turn them until their seats should cease.

It was a wild race. Four or five times the broncho gave tremendous jumps, but landed right and went on in good shape. In the course of an hour or so the man had the steers quieted.

When daylight came, being curious to learn what obstacles had occasioned those tremendous jumps of the broncho, the men set forth to look over the ground. Leaving the bottom land, the steers had ascended a gentle incline, and on the plateau at the top he had kept circling them.

The plateau was intersected by a canyon about four miles long and from 1,500 to 2,000 feet deep. Its walls inclined toward each other at the top, and the distance across was fifteen or twenty feet.

During the chase the broncho had jumped that frightful chasm four times. His hoof marks were plainly visible, and down in the debris, hundreds of feet below, were a dozen mangled steers that had been crowded off.—Los Angeles Times.

More than twice as wide as Niagara falls and fully fifty feet higher, the falls of Igazu, in South America, are one of the great natural wonders of that continent.

BASEBALL STORIES.

Connie Mack's Trick on Cap Anson and the Foul Strike Rule.

There may have been better catchers than Connie Mack, but none any foxier. Connie was with the Pirates back in 1893, when he played a little trick on Cap Anson that won a game for Pittsburgh.

Ad Gumbert was pitching for the Pirates and got himself into a hole. Chicago filled the bases in a hurry, and only one man was out. Cap Anson came to bat.

In those days Cap was a terror to pitchers. The situation was serious. Cap had a way of taking two strikes and then fighting on the third one for fare-ye-well.

And so it was here. Gumbert floated two across, and Cap didn't blink an eye.

Suddenly Connie Mack stepped aside, while Gumbert held the ball, and took off his mask. He wiped his brow, tossed his glove aside and started removing his chest protector.

Anson was amazed. He looked around and glanced with wide open eyes at Mack. "What's the matter, Connie?" he inquired. "Ain't you going to give me a crack at the ball?"

As he spoke Connie signaled to Gumbert, and he whipped a fast one straight across. Mack reached out his chest protector and blocked the ball. Then he grabbed it as it rolled away, touched the plate, forcing the man who was on third, and then, throwing to first, doubled Anson. The Cap was so surprised he didn't even try to run.

Behind every change in rules lies a pretty little romance of one kind or another. According to George Moreland, it was McGraw and Thomas who forced the foul strike rule.

In the early nineties those two men were so adept in knocking fouls until they got one they could lift that they delayed the game indefinitely. It was nothing extraordinary for them to crack out twenty or so fouls in a single time at bat.

Like the expert cricket batter, they could tick the ball at will, just meeting it. They worried pitchers so that finally, in desperation, they would lay one across, waist high, and they'd crown it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Talked Out.

"It says here," said Mrs. Diggin, laying down the paper, "that telephone girls make very satisfactory wives."

"On the theory, I dare say," said Mr. Diggin, "that by the time they marry they have got all the violent conversation out of their systems and really yearn for rest and quiet."—Puck.

The Gilded Man.

At the headwaters of the Orinoco Spanish traditions located the land of El Dorado, "the gilded man," a potentate whose country was so rich in gold dust that he had his body anointed with oil and sprinkled with gold every morning, so that he shone in the sun as though gilded.

Surely.

ICE HOUSE IS BURNED TO GROUND

Brainerd Ice Co. Building in Northeast Brainerd in Flames at 11 O'clock Tuesday Night

FIRE ORIGIN IS A MYSTERY

No Insurance, 700 Tons of Ice, Some Tools and Building Make a Loss of About $1,000

Fire of unknown origin Tuesday night at 11 o'clock destroyed the Northeast Brainerd ice house of the Brainerd Ice Co. In the ice house were some 700 tons of ice, a lot of tools and this with the loss of the building, which measured about 40 by 120 feet, made a total loss of $1,000.

No insurance was carried. The ice house will not be rebuilt, said C. H. Paine, of the ice company.

A. J. SOVEREIGN DEAD

Prominent Railway Man, Once Engineer Out of Brainerd, Died in St. Paul

A. J. Sovereign, prominent railway man known to all associates as "Al," died at his home in St. Paul Wednesday morning following a long illness. The funeral will be held 10:30 A. M. in St. Paul. He leaves a wife and daughter, Mrs. Perry Dow. The funeral will be held from the home, 442 Holly avenue.

Mr. Sovereign was first an engineer running out of Brainerd, later assistant superintendent of the Lake Superior division, then transferred from Duluth to Staples where he was superintendent of the Wadena branch of the Minnesota division. Four or five years ago he took an indefinite layoff on account of sickness. Many Brainerd railway men will attend the funeral.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press says: A. J. Sovereign, former division superintendent on the Northern Pacific, died last night at his residence, 442 Holly avenue, from a complication of diseases. He was 63 years old.

Mr. Sovereign entered the railroad business when 17 years old, working for the Michigan Central. Three years later he came to St. Paul as a locomotive engineer for the Northern Pacific, and remained with the road until he retired in 1912.

He gradually advanced until appointed superintendent of the Staples, Minn., division in 1903. He held positions at Duluth, Brainerd and Fergus Falls.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. H. L. Dow. During his life he became well known through the northwest in railroad and Masonic circles.

Funeral services will be held from the home Friday, Rev. E. M. Cross officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES TODAY

Belated returns from the county fair are to the effect that the Speedwells won from the Pequoters, and pocketed the $50 prize hung up by the fair management. The first report trickling through from the battlefield awarded the palm to the Pequot nine. As McGarry said: "Giving the victory to Pequot was a mistake. The score was vice versa."

The catalog house has the persistence of a bull dog after a cat. When the M. W. Sausage isn't at it, then the Sausage, Swabuck & Co., Softmans, Montwary Gum & Co., are busy. Just now the postoffice is jammed with Jawn X. Smith's dope. He stores his carloads of catalogs in town and releases them at intervals. In the meantime Brainerd merchants, as a rule, are saving printer's ink in the local papers and kicking about the flood of catalogs. Economy is a good thing, but don't spare the advertising space in the Dispatch. Honestly now, Mr. Merchant Who Considers He Doesn't Have to Advertise, what are you doing to combat the mail order menace?

Brainerd is accused of harboring secrets, because it is keeping things in the dark.

Some people are making light of the attempt to create a voluntarily contributed light fund.

It needs a shock to light up Brainerd. That will come when some prominent citizen's place is robbed in the dark or some woman is molested. In the meantime the argument will continue on what's the matter with Brainerd.

RESOLUTIONS PRAISE WILSON

Democrats in Convention at the Court House Give Wilson Credit For Prosperity

MAL. D. CLARK PRESIDED

Col. C. D. Johnson is the Chairman of the County Committee Elected at Mass Meeting

Resolutions adopted by the meeting of Crow Wing county democrats at the court house this afternoon praised President Woodrow Wilson and gave him credit for the prosperity in the United States.

The resolutions as drawn up by F. M. Koop, James E. Brady and James M. Elder, read:

"Whereas, our country has enjoyed the blessings in the four years just passed of a prosperity unparalleled in its history, and

"Whereas, that prosperity has resulted in a large degree from the manner in which our president, Woodrow Wilson, has administered its affairs, and it is important that the prosperity of the near future be not impaired,

"Now therefore, be it resolved, by the democrats of Crow Wing county in convention assembled, that the administration of our president, Woodrow Wilson, and the policies he and our congress have advocated and advanced be heartily endorsed and approved."

Mal. D. Clark presided at the meeting and Fritz M. Koop was secretary.

Mr. Clark selected a committee of three to name the nine members of the county committee, Dr. Werner Hemstead, J. W. Koop of Brainerd, and Dr. Wm. Reid of Deerwood.

The committee on resolutions was named as reported.

The county committee reported the following organization: Col. C. D. Johnson, chairman; John M. Taylor, vice president; Fritz M. Koop, secretary; Gilca P. O'Brien, treasurer; J. J. Cummins, all of this city, and Dr. F. A. Knight, Pequot; Marc Atkinson, editor of the Crosby Crucible, Crosby; Joseph Raymond, Deerwood; Paul Zeug, cashier of the bank at Fort Ripley.

The organization as reported by the special committee was made permanent.

On motion carried the county committee was instructed to appoint an executive committee and a member from each voting precinct.

Col. C. D. Johnson, chairman of the county committee, was authorized to fill vacancies.

The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

B. H. S. FOOTBALL

Advance Dope on the Gridiron Situation in Brainerd, Pep in Evidence

(By E. J. G.)

For the past week, the Koering fields has been a seething mass of football warriors and spectators. The boys of the B. H. S. are up and at it this year and it is expected that by a week from Saturday Mahlum's men will be hard and ready for the battle. It is not known definitely with whom the first game will be played but the authorities on this matter promise a good schedule to the football enthusiasts of Brainerd. Every night the men go through tackling drills, scrimmage, different formations, receive a lecture on rules and last but not least a mile and a half run at top speed. The long expected Mr. Lawrence has arrived but not with the usual ceremonies extended a great athlete. The band did not play, the high school remained right in session, why even the lights were not turned on that night. No one knew of his arrival until a murmur arose in those massive halls of intellect that that fellow in the office was Lawrence but Mr. R. R. Denton's appearance on the scene of commotion vanquished the only excitement that had been noticeable on his arrival.

One of the hardest propositions that the Brainerd High School Athletic association has had to contend with is the financial end of our football. We do not wish to criticize anyone but we do wish and hope that the public spirit for our high school will be great enough to enable us to keep up the financial end of our athletics this year.

This year will produce one of the best teams that Brainerd enthusiasts have ever had the opportunity of seeing. This year's team is expected to be as good, if not better, than any team that ever played on the Brainerd gridiron, with the possible exception of the Brainerd high school team of 1908, champions of all northern Minnesota, to whom we all pay homage. The following is the list of the men who are trying for positions according to the best authority: Warner, Reis, Falconer, Larson, Hubbard, Lawrence, Marken, Nelson, McComas, Crosswell, Overly, Hall, Anderson, Koop, Peters, Olson and Smith. Outlooks are the very best and Coach Mahlum's men are worthy of the support of every royal Brainerdite.

Paul Henry returned from Dakota last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stirewalt and son and Miss Rose Hoerner of Emily were Sunday visitors at Peterson's.

ELEC RID LIGHT FOR BRAINERD

"Aha," said one man when he read the column for electric light donations headed by Con O'Brien's $10 offer, "I don't believe in that at all. That's not the way to get any light in Brainerd. What we need is another special election to change the water and light rules so that the money collected from all water and light users, who helped create the reserve, be now used to light the town and help out a lot of us fellows who never gave a cent toward light or water."

While some of these men are discussing the situation the "Light for Brainerd" column is growing. True, it's not a big amount as yet, not enough money to choke an elephant to death, or to make much impression on the water and light board to whom the city of Brainerd owes $12,000.

But it's a start, fellow citizens. Some fine night you'll walk down town and you'll see the lights blazing up like a state fair set piece.

This morning O. E. Swanson, of Swanson & Thon, enterprising grocers of 103 Kindred street, walked in and laid down a real check for real money, made out to "The Brainerd Dispatch, For Street Lighting," amount $3.

"Here's something to start the lights a-going," said Mr. Swanson.

The list to date of pledges now reads:

Con O'Brien.....$10.00
John A. Hoffbauer..... 1.00
John Cochran..... 2.00
J. P. McGill..... 1.00

Cash donation:
Swanson & Thon..... 3.00

It is rumored that Thos. J. Crosswell, vice president of the Cuyuna Range Power Co., or M. D. Stoner, president of the company, may give a substantial donation every month to the fund.

$69 to $79 a month will turn on the top lights of the ornamental posts.

$309 a month turns on all the street lights all over town, public buildings, bridges, etc.

It's up to all of us, how long we shall be without light. If you can't donate cash, then turn on your porch light. Do that much at least.

Brainerd Ice Co. Building in Northeast Brainerd in Flames at 11 O'clock Tuesday Night

FIRE ORIGIN IS A MYSTERY

No Insurance, 700 Tons of Ice, Some Tools and Building Make a Loss of About $1,000

Fire of unknown origin Tuesday night at 11 o'clock destroyed the Northeast Brainerd ice house of the Brainerd Ice Co. In the ice house were some 700 tons of ice, a lot of tools and this with the loss of the building, which measured about 40 by 120 feet, made a total loss of $1,000.

No insurance was carried. The ice house will not be rebuilt, said C. H. Faine, of the ice company.

A. J. SOVEREIGN DEAD

Prominent Railway Man, Once Engineer Out of Brainerd, Died in St. Paul

A. J. Sovereign, prominent railway man known to all associates as "Al," died at his home in St. Paul Wednesday morning following a long illness. The funeral will be held 10:30 A. M. in St. Paul. He leaves a wife and daughter, Mrs. Harry Dow. The funeral will be held from the home, 442 Holly avenue.

Mr. Sovereign was first an engineer running out of Brainerd, later assistant superintendent of the Lake Superior division, then transferred from Duluth to Staples where he was superintendent of the Wadena branch of the Minnesota division. Four or five years ago he took an indefinite layoff on account of sickness. Many Brainerd railway men will attend the funeral.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press says: A. J. Sovereign, former division superintendent on the Northern Pacific, died last night at his residence, 442 Holly avenue, from a complication of diseases. He was 63 years old.

Mr. Sovereign entered the railroad business when 17 years old, working for the Michigan Central. Three years later he came to St. Paul as a locomotive engineer for the Northern Pacific, and remained with the road until he retired in 1912.

He gradually advanced until appointed superintendent of the Staples, Minn., division in 1902. He held positions at Duluth, Brainerd and Ferguson Falls.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. H. L. Dow. During his life he became well known through the northwest in railroad and Masonic circles.

Funeral services will be held from the home Friday, Rev. E. M. Cross officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES TODAY

Belated returns from the county fair are to the effect that the Speedwells won from the Pequotites, and pocketed the $50 prize hung up by the fair management. The first report trickling through from the battlefield awarded the palm to the Pequot nine. As McGarry said: "Giving the victory to Pequot was a mistake. The score was vice versa."

The catalog house has the persistence of a bull dog after a cat. When the M. W. Sausage isn't at it, then the Sneers, Swabuck & Co., Softmans, Montwary Gun & Co. are busy. Just now the postoffice is jammed with Jawn X. Smith's dope. He stores his carloads of catalogs in town and releases them at intervals. In the meantime Brainerd merchants, as a rule, are saving printer's ink in the local papers and kicking about the flood of catalogs. Economy is a good thing, but don't spare the advertising space in the Dispatch. Honestly now, Mr. Merchant Who Considers He Doesn't Have to Advertise, what are you doing to combat the mail order menace?

Brainerd is accused of harboring secrets, because it is keeping things in the dark.

Some people are making light of the attempt to create a voluntarily contributed light fund.

It needs a shock to light up Brainerd. That will come when some prominent citizen's place is robbed in the dark or some woman is molested. In the meantime the argument will continue on what's the matter with Brainerd.

RESOLUTIONS PRAISE WILSON

Democrats in Convention at the Court House Give Wilson Credit For Prosperity

MAL. D. CLARK PRESIDED

Col. C. D. Johnson is the Chairman of the County Committee Elected at Mass Meeting

Resolutions adopted by the meeting of Crow Wing county democrats at the court house this afternoon praised President Woodrow Wilson and gave him credit for the prosperity in the United States.

The resolutions as drawn up by F. M. Koop, James E. Brady and James M. Elder, read:

"Whereas, our country has enjoyed the blessings in the four years just passed of a prosperity unparalleled in its history, and

"Whereas, that prosperity has resulted in a large degree from the manner in which our president, Woodrow Wilson, has administered its affairs, and it is important that the prosperity of the near future be not impaired,

"Now therefore, be it resolved, by the democrats of Crow Wing county in convention assembled, that the administration of our president, Woodrow Wilson, and the policies he and our congress have advocated and advanced be heartily endorsed and approved."

Mal. D. Clark presided at the meeting and Fritz M. Koop was secretary.

Mr. Clark selected a committee of three to name the nine members of the county committee, Dr. Werner Hemstead, J. W. Koop of Brainerd, and Dr. Wm. Reid of Deerwood.

The committee on resolutions was named as reported.

The county committee reported the following organization: Col. C. D. Johnson, chairman; John M. Taylor, vice president; Fritz M. Koop, secretary; Giles P. O'Brien, treasurer; J. J. Cummins, all of this city, and Dr. P. A. Knight, Pequot; Marc Atkinson, editor of the Crosby Crucible; Crosby; Joseph Raymond, Deerwood; Paul Zeug, cashier of the bank at Et. Ripley.

The organization as reported by the special committee was made permanent.

On motion carried the county committee was instructed to appoint an executive committee and a member from each voting precinct.

Col. C. D. Johnson, chairman of the county committee, was authorized to fill vacancies.

The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

B. H. S. FOOTBALL

Advance Depe on the Gridiron Situation in Brainerd, Pop in Evidence

(By E. J. G.)

For the past week, the Keoring fields has been a seething mass of football warriors and spectators. The boys of the B. H. S. are up and at it this year and it is expected that by a week from Saturday Mahlum's men will be hard and ready for the battle. It is not known definitely with whom the first game will be played but the authorities on this matter promise a good schedule to the football enthusiasts of Brainerd. Every night the men go through tackling drills, scrimmages, different formations, receive a lecture on rules and last but not least a mile and a half run at top speed. The long expected Mr. Lawrence has arrived but not with the usual ceremonies extended a great athlete. The band did not play, the high school remained right in session, why even the lights were not turned on that night. No one knew of his arrival until a murmur arose in those massive halls of intellect that that fellow in the office was Lawrence but Mr. R. R. Denton's appearance on the scene of commotion vanquished the only excitement that had been noticeable on his arrival.

One of the hardest propositions that the Brainerd High School Athletic association has had to contend with is the financial end of our football. We do not wish to criticize anyone but we do wish and hope that the public spirit for our high school will be great enough to enable us to keep up the financial end of our athletics this year.

This year will produce one of the best teams that Brainerd enthusiasts have ever had the opportunity of seeing. This year's team is expected to be as good, if not better, than any team that ever played on the Brainerd gridiron, with the possible exception of the Brainerd high school team of 1908, champions of all northern Minnesota, to whom we all pay homage. The following is the list of the men who are trying for positions according to the best authority: Warner, Reis, Falconer, Larson, Hubbard, Lawrence, Markon, Nelson, McComa, Crosswell, Overly, Hall, Anderson, Koop, Peters, Olson and Smith. Outlooks are the very best and Coach Mahlum's men are worthy of the support of every royal Brainerdite.

RANGE STRIKE END IS CALLED TRUCE

Elk River, Minn., Sept. 20.—With the calling off of the Menominee range mink strikes in various range towns and similar action at the Cuyuna and Vermilion ranges, Industrial Workers of the World leaders here described their defeat as "a temporary truce with the mining companies."

Protest meetings will continue to be held in all range towns for collection of money to aid in the defense of Trezona, Seacht and others in jail at Duluth on charges of first degree murder.

An effort will be made to maintain the I. W. W. on the range, and organizers will be left at Elk River and Virginia to further the organization's propaganda.

Mining superintendents said they do not expect any material change to be effected in the general situation by the formal calling off of the strike. A few will be taken back occasionally as needed, they said.

John A. Hoffbauer 1.00

Cash donation:
Swanson & Thon 3.00

It is rumored that Thos. J. Crosswell, vice president of the Cuyuna Range Power Co., or M. D. Stoner, president of the company, may give a substantial donation every month to the fund.

$50 to $70 a month will turn on the top lights of the ornamental posts.

$200 a month turns on all the street lights all over town, public buildings, bridges, etc.

It's up to all of us, how long we shall be without light. If you can't donate cash, then turn on your porch light. Do that much at least.

Woodward was released on $2,500 bond shortly after his surrender.

Mrs. Evers Released.

Mrs. Helen Evers, alleged "lure" in the gang's operations, and the only woman still under charges in connection with the "syndicate's" alleged operations, was released on $2,500 bond. Only two members of the gang, Edward Donahue and Henry Russell, are still in jail.

A conference at Washington on the prosecution of alleged members of the "international blackmail syndicate" was arranged. It was learned from officials of the department of justice, who left for Washington.

Counsel for those held here in connection with the case instituted proceedings before Federal Judge Landis to take from the government all of the documentary evidence on which it depends for conviction.

Landis Will Decide.

They charged it was illegally seized. Judge Landis will decide Friday.

Dismissal of charges against three of the seven alleged members of the Chicago apartment hotel, prompted the belief that no effort will be made to link the "syndicate" with any except the case of Mrs. Regina Klipper, a Philadelphia divorcee.

Hearing on the others was postponed by a United States commissioner until next Friday, after Mrs. Frances Chapman, Mrs. Edward Donahue and George Bland had been freed when authorities admitted lack of evidence.

New York Wants Billy Sunday.

New York, Sept. 20.—Billy Sunday is again urged to come to New York and teach the metropolis how to "hit the trail." Thirty men who are on a committee to bring the evangelist here for meetings next spring announced that ministers who were formerly opposed to Sunday's coming will now welcome him. All that is needed is word from Sunday himself that he will accept the date, March 1, 1917.

Russian Loan at 5 1/2 Per Cent.

London, Sept. 20.—A new war loan by the Russian government is proposed, according to a Reuters dispatch from Petrograd. The plan, says the dispatch, is to issue at the end of October a new internal 5 1/2 per cent ten year loan for war purposes to the amount of 3,000,000,000 rubles, the price of issue to be 95.

Pope Deplores Cathedral Attacks.

Venice, Sept. 20.—Monsignor La Fontaine, the Patriarch of Venice, has published a letter from Pope Benedict deploring the attempts against the churches and treasures of Venice and rejoicing that the church of San Giovanni Paolo escaped "blind blows, only sustaining damage which fortunately can be repaired."

Germany Wants Occupied Nation to Subscribe to Loan.

Washington, Sept. 20.—State department officials have taken up for study the protest filed by the Belgian legation alleging that German military authorities are trying to force Belgian banks to subscribe to a German loan equivalent to $200,000,000.

The protest also charged that because the national bank of Belgium declined to assent to a loan the director, M. Carlier, had been thrown into prison.

It is regarded as doubtful if United States authorities will consider the situation as justifying interference by this country.

Lowest Death Rate Is Recorded in United States.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The lowest death rate in the country's history is shown in preliminary vital statistics for the year 1915, made public by the census bureau. The rate, 12.5 per 1,000, is based on reports from twenty-five states and forty-one cities, with a total population of about 67,000,000. In 1914 the percentage of deaths was 13.5, the lowest recorded up to that time. There has been a steady decrease. The average rate during the period 1901-05 was 16.2.

Flight May Bring Protest.

Douglas, Ariz., Sept. 20.—Lieutenant Thomas Lawen and Carl Spates, who arrived here from Columbus, N. M., on trial flights, left for their base at Columbus. The machine flew for a mile or two over Mexican territory before taking an eastward course. As a result, it was stated a protest may be filed for alleged violation of territorial rights of Mexico.

MAINE PLEASES BOTH PARTIES

Democrats as Well as Republicans Are Gratified.

ALL EYES ON PROGRESSIVES

G. O. P. Working Hard to Bring Them Back to Fold in All States, While Democrats Are Endeavoring to Prevent Repetition of Maine Vote.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The people of Maine ought to be very much gratified, for they have satisfied both political parties. A state which can hold an election and give satisfaction to the rival political parties in the contest is doing mighty good work.

Leaders in both parties said they were satisfied with the result in Maine, which is the reason for observing how well the voters in that state have performed. But party leaders must be satisfied and see victory up to the morning of election day or perhaps noon on election day. That is what is expected of them.

Getting Down to Facts.

When we go beneath the surface perhaps the expression of two United States senators will give a fair idea of how the men who do not manage campaigns felt about it. Senator Vandaman of Mississippi remarked that he was somewhat "dazed" over the result. Senator Harding of Ohio said, "I'm making no kick."

Other Republicans were more pronounced in giving vent to the jubilation they felt, and other Democrats were less pronounced in speaking of the regret they felt that the Republican victory was quite so complete.

Both Must Work Hard.

One result is that both parties must work harder than ever. The Republicans will work to keep the Progressives in the party and to make the Maine result spread over other northern states. The Democrats must work to keep the Republicans from repeating in other states, particularly those on the whole Atlantic seaboard north of the Chesapeake, what they have done in Maine.

And, after all, Maine is not a barometer. The result simply means that the Republicans won the first fall, not by as large a majority as they could wish, but with enough votes to make them very appreciative.

Hits Both Revenue Committees.

Both of the Democrats in congress from Maine were members of the revenue committees, McGillicuddy on ways and means and Johnson on finance. Both of them were good men, well liked, not only among the Democrats, but also among the Republicans. Both came to congress as a result of the Democratic cyclone of 1910, which emptied nine seats in the senate and turned a Republican majority of forty into a Democratic majority of sixty in the house. Both were advanced rapidly on account of their personal popularity and because the Democrats desired to recognize northern Democrats.

Waste of Paper.

During the close of congress every body rushed in to get permission to print all sorts of things in the Congressional Record. Protesting against this, Senator Smoot of Utah said that although the price of paper was steadily advancing and there was the possibility of a paper famine, he regretted to say that by the printing of articles in the Record there was an actual waste of from $1,000 to $7,000 worth of paper each day. In view of the high price which publishers were paying for paper he thought a halt should be called.

He Didn't Believe It.

"Without warning your own people you have suddenly surrendered to the insidious propaganda which has so long corrupted such a large part of our press."

That remark was made by Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts, but we must credit him with saying it in a hurry and "in the heat of debate." He does not believe it himself. What he was talking about was the efforts which congress was making to have the rights of American commerce and American people respected by Great Britain. If the press was corrupted, then congress was corrupted, for congress put through the legislation intended to bring redress.

Denmark's Last Chance.

The friends of the Danes had better tell them that this is their last chance. If they do not grab the $25,000,000 which is provided for them in the treaty ratified just at the close of the session they will never get any such price for the islands in the future. In this country now or so the people of this country may not want those little West India islands.

The Irish Vote.

In every election we hear of the German vote, the Scandinavian vote, the Italian vote and always the Irish vote. Just now there is considerable concern about this same Irish vote. It is quite a factor in a number of states. There are a lot of good Americans with Irish ancestry living in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey and especially in New York. The party that carries New York this fall is likely to elect the president.

GROWING PEANUTS.

How They Are Planted, Harvested and Prepared for Market.

The culture of the peanut is not attended with much difficulty. Land suited to the raising of corn or melons is generally selected, and care is taken that there is nothing in the soil that would stain the shells. Planting begins when the danger from frost has passed. The ground is plowed five or six inches deep and then harrowed. The nuts are taken from the pod without breaking their skins and are planted two or three together in rows about three feet apart and two or three inches from hill to hill, being covered with two inches of earth.

In October, when the nuts are ripe, the farmer loosens the earth and pulls up the vines, to which the nuts adhere, and turns them over to dry. He performs this task only in pleasant weather and when the ground is dry. When the vines have lain in the sun for a day, which is sufficient time for them to dry, the grower stacks them around a stake about five feet high.

The vines remain in stack from three to five weeks, after which the nuts are picked off, placed in sacks and shipped to market. A vine under favorable conditions often bears more than 100 nuts, and the yield per acre exceeds forty bushels.

To polish the peanuts and to remove the earth and stems the nuts are scoured in large metal cylinders, from which they pass through blast fans, in which a strong current of air separates the fully developed nuts having sound kernels from those imperfectly filled and from empty pods. The sound nuts fall through the fan upon sorting tables, where those that are discolored are taken out and the bright ones are passed on into sacks that will each hold about 100 pounds of nuts. Each sack is marked with the brand that indicates the grade of its contents.—Washington Star.

VICE PRESIDENT KING.

He Took the Oath of Office Abroad, but Did Not Like to Serve.

William Rufus King, born April 6, 1789, died April 18, 1853, was a vice president of the United States who never served in that capacity and one who took the oath of office on foreign soil, something which can be said of no other executive officer who has ever been elected by the people of this country. King was an invalid, but his friends urged him to take second place on the ticket with Pierce in 1852.

Both were elected, but Mr. King's health failed so rapidly that he was forced to go to Cuba some two months before inauguration day. Not having returned to the United States by March 4, congress passed a special act authorizing the United States consul at Matanzas, Cuba, to swear him in as vice president at about the hour when Pierce was taking the oath of office at Washington.

This arrangement was carried out to a dot, and on the day appointed, at a plantation on one of the highest hills in the vicinity of Matanzas, Mr. King was made vice president of the United States amid the solemn "Vaya vol con Dios" (God will be with you) of the creoles who had assembled to witness the unique spectacle. Vice President King returned to his home at Cabaway, Ala., arriving at that place April 17, 1853, and died the following day.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-checked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

LEADER OF GANG GIVES HIMSELF UP

William C. Woodward Surrenders to District Attorney.

OTHERS' HEARING POSTPONED

Charges Against Three Are Dismissed Because of Lack of Evidence—Defendants' Counsel Seeks to Obtain Papers Seized in Raid.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—William C. Woodward, accused by department of justice officials as leader of the gang of alleged international blackmailers caught in a raid on a fashionable apartment hotel here, surrendered to the United States district attorney.

Woodward gave himself up to the district attorney, when he learned that the Chicago agent of the department of justice had gone to Washington. He said he would not surrender to that department.

Woodward was released on $2,500 bond shortly after his surrender.

Mrs. Evers Released.

Mrs. Helen Evers, alleged "lure" in the gang's operations, and the only woman still under charges in connection with the "syndicate's" alleged operations, was released on $2,500 bond. Only two members of the gang, Edward Donahue and Henry Russell, are still in jail.

A conference at Washington on the prosecution of alleged members of the "international blackmail syndicate" was arranged, it was learned from officials of the department of justice, who left for Washington.

MAINE PLEASES BOTH PARTIES

Democrats as Well as Republicans Are Gratified.

ALL EYES ON PROGRESSIVES

G. O. P. Working Hard to Bring Them Back to Fold in All States, While Democrats Are Endeavoring to Prevent Repetition of Maine Vote. Waste of Paper Arouses Smoot.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The people of Maine ought to be very much gratified, for they have satisfied both political parties. A state which can hold an election and give satisfaction to the rival political parties in the contest is doing mighty good work.

Leaders in both parties said they were satisfied with the result in Maine, which is the reason for observing how well the voters in that state have performed. But party leaders must be satisfied and see victory up to the morning of election day or perhaps noon on election day. That is what is expected of them.

Getting Down to Facts.

When we go beneath the surface perhaps the expression of two United States senators will give a fair idea of how the men who do not manage campaigns felt about it. Senator Vardaman of Mississippi remarked that he was somewhat "dazed" over the result. Senator Harding of Ohio said, "I'm making no kink."

Other Republicans were more pronounced in giving vent to the jubilation they felt, and other Democrats were less pronounced in speaking of the regret they felt that the Republican victory was quite so complete.

Both Must Work Hard.

One result is that that both parties must work harder than ever. The Republicans will work to keep the Progressives in the party and to make the Maine result spread over other northern states. The Democrats must work to keep the Republicans from repeating in other states, particularly those on the whole Atlantic seaboard north of the Chesapeake, what they have done in Maine.

And, after all, Maine is not a barometer. The result simply means that the Republicans won the first fall, not by as large a majority as they could wish, but with enough votes to make them very appreciative.

Hits Both Revenue Committees.

Both of the Democrats in congress from Maine were members of the revenue committees. McGillicuddy on ways and means and Johnson on finance. Both of them were good men, well liked, not only among the Democrats, but also among the Republicans. Both came to congress as a result of the Democratic cyclone of 1910, which emptied nine seats in the senate and turned a Republican majority of forty into a Democratic majority of sixty in the house. Both were advanced rapidly on account of their personal popularity and because the Democrats desired to recognize northern Democrats.

Waste of Paper.

During the close of congress everybody rushed in to get permission to print all sorts of things in the Congressional Record. Protesting against this, Senator Smoot of Utah said that although the price of paper was steadily advancing and there was the possibility of a paper famine, he regretted to say that by the printing of articles in the Record there was an actual waste of from $4,000 to $7,000 worth of paper each day. In view of the high price which publishers were paying for paper he thought a halt should be called.

He Didn't Believe It.

"Without warning your own people you have suddenly surrendered to the insidious propaganda which has so long corrupted such a large part of our press."

That remark was made by Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts, but we must credit him with saying it in a hurry and "in the heat of debate." He does not believe it himself. What he was talking about was the efforts which congress was making to have the rights of American commerce and American people respected by Great Britain. If the press was corrupted, then congress was corrupted, for congress put through the legislation intended to bring redress.

Denmark's Last Chance.

The friends of the Danes had better tell them that this is their last chance. If they do not grab the $25,000,000 which is provided for them in the treaty ratified just at the close of the session they will never get any such price for the islands in the future. In another year or so the people of this country may not want those little West India islands.

The Irish Vote.

In every election we hear of the German vote, the Scandinavian vote, the Italian vote and always the Irish vote. Just now there is considerable concern about this same Irish vote. It is quite a factor in a number of states. There are a lot of good Americans with Irish ancestry living in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey and especially in New York. The party that carries New York this fall is likely to elect the president.

GROWING PEANUTS.

How They Are Planted, Harvested and Prepared for Market.

The culture of the peanut is not attended with much difficulty. Land suited to the raising of corn or melons is generally selected, and care is taken that there is nothing in the soil that would stain the shells. Planting begins when the danger from frost has passed. The ground is plowed five or six inches deep and then harrowed. The nuts are taken from the pod without breaking their skins and are planted two or three together in rows about three feet apart and two or three inches from hill to hill, being covered with two inches of earth.

In October, when the nuts are ripe, the farmer loosens the earth and pulls up the vines, to which the nuts adhere, and turns them over to dry. He performs this task only in pleasant weather and when the ground is dry. When the vines have lain in the sun for a day, which is sufficient time for them to dry, the grower stacks them around a stake about five feet high.

The vines remain in stack from three to five weeks, after which the nuts are picked off, placed in sacks and shipped to market. A vine under favorable conditions often bears more than 100 nuts, and the yield per acre exceeds forty bushels.

To polish the peanuts and to remove the earth and stems the nuts are scored in large metal cylinders, from which they pass through blast fans, in which a strong current of air separates the fully developed nuts having sound kernels from those imperfectly filled and from empty pods. The sound nuts fall through the fan upon sorting tables, where those that are discolored are taken out and the bright ones are passed on into sacks that will each hold about 100 pounds of nuts. Each sack is marked with the brand that indicates the grade of its contents.—Washington Star.

VICE PRESIDENT KING.

He Took the Oath of Office Abroad, but Did Not Like to Serve.

William Rufus King, born April 6, 1796, died April 18, 1853, was a vice president of the United States who never served in that capacity and one who took the oath of office on foreign soil, something which can be said of no other executive officer who has ever been elected by the people of this country. King was an invalid, but his friends urged him to take second place on the ticket with Pierce in 1852.

Both were elected, but Mr. King's health failed so rapidly that he was forced to go to Cuba some two months before inauguration day. Not having returned to the United States by March 4, congress passed a special act authorizing the United States consul at Matanzas, Cuba, to swear him in as vice president at about the hour when Pierce was taking the oath of office at Washington.

This arrangement was carried out to a dot, and on the day appointed, at a plantation on one of the highest hills in the vicinity of Matanzas, Mr. King was made vice president of the United States amid the solemn "Vaya vol Dios" (God will be with you) of the creoles who had assembled to witness the unique spectacle. Vice President King returned to his home at Cahaba, Ala., arriving at that place April 17, 1853, and died the following day.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.
